5 BUS LINES ASK MARION-BUCYRUS ROUTE

State Utility Commission Holds Hearings Today on Two Applications.

WOULD REPLACE C.,M.&B.

Permission Will Not Be Granted Until Electric Service Is Discontinued.

Hearings on two of five bus company applications before the state utilities commission for permission to operate bus passenger line between Marion and Bucyrus were begun before the state utilities commission in Columbus this morning, according to the Associated Press.

None of the five applications, commission members said, will be granted until the C., D. & M. Electric Co. abandons its interurban passenger service between the two cities, which it was granted authority to do provided that arrangements were made to seal or remove tracks in Bucyrus and Marion.

Companies Before Commission

Companies whose applications were before the commission for hearings today are the Galion-Mansfield Transit Co., seeking authority to extend its route from Bucyrus to Marion, and the Buckeye Stages, Inc., of Columbus, seeking authority to operate a line from Columbus to Port Clinton by way of Marion and Bucyrus. This company made clear in its application that it would not haul passengers between Columbus and Delaware, Columbus and Marion, or Delaware and Marion in competition to the Marion-Columbus division of the electric company.

Thirty witnesses were on hand to testify before the commission and a gallery of onlookers in regard to the applications. Among those present were representatives of the New York Central and Chesepeake & Ohio railroads, protesting all applications.

The commission will not reach a decision on the two applications being heard today until three others for the same route to be heard later, have been given hearing. These three applications were filed by G. W. Ward, seeking an extension of his Bucyrus-Sandusky route from Bucyrus to Marion, the Marion-Lima Transit Co., and the Muskingum Valley Transit Co., the latter seeking authority to operate a bus line from Columbus to Bucyrus.

Eleventh Safe in Marysville Is Burglarized

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 25—Since Marysville merchants have taken to bolts and nuts to keep their safes, robbers have shown a fondness for nitroglycerin to blow them all to smithereens. The Cities Service filling stations of Marysville lost the eleventh strong box early this morning when safe crackers blew open the safe in one of three stations here and escaped with $61.

Nitroglycerine was used to "crack" the safe, officials found upon investigation. Neighbors in the west end of Marysville were awakened by a loud explosion about 4 a. m. today and said they saw a machine speeding out of town.

In the last two years the three Cities Service stations here have had 10 other safes either blown open or carried off by thieves. Since the last robbery the safes have been bolted to the floors, but the playful robbers have discovered that nitroglycerin laughs at a safe anchored in this manner.

MOLONEY ASKED TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Question of Interurban Track Removal To Be Taken Up at Bucyrus.

Charles F. Schaber, city solicitor of Bucyrus, today announced that he had asked W. P. Moloney, vice president and general counsel for the Ohio Electric Power Co. and the C., D. & M. Electric Co. to confer with him and other Bucyrus officials tonight in the mayor's office there regarding the matter of removing or sealing the rails of the Marion-Bucyrus division of the C., D. & M. Electric Co. interurban in Bucyrus.

Mr. Moloney could not be reached this morning to learn whether he or other company officials would attend the conference.

The conference was called to discuss an order of the state utilities commission granting the company authority to abandon the Marion-Bucyrus division interurban tracks provided the company reached an agreement with the cities of Bucyrus and Marion as to what disposal [illegible] prohibitive.

IN WASHINGTON TRAIL FLIGHT

TOUCH HISTORIC SPOTS

Plane Drops Mail at Numerous Points Along Circular Route.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 25—Major James H. Doolittle and Miss Anne Madison Washington, on a dawn-to-dusk flight covering the trails traveled by George Washington, streaked away from Washington Hoover airport at 8:15 a. m. today after a refueling stop in the national capital.

Three quarters of the journey was ahead of the pair with the next stop scheduled for Pittsburgh at 2:30 p. m. They started from Boston at 3:25 a. m.

Miss Washington, great-great-great niece of the first president, had little to say in the half hour stay in Washington except "everything was just fine and we dropped every package of mail along the way right on the dot."

Third Air Trip

This is Miss Washington's third airplane ride, the other two being in preparation for this trip.

The airplane, a low-wing yellow speedster, was loaded with 250 gallons of gasoline here before taking off, on a route including Mount Vernon, where Washington lived and is buried.

The other points on the itinerary where mail will be dropped are Fredericksburg, Virginia, Washington's birthplace, Williamsburg, Virginia, Sunbury, North Carolina; Winchester, Virginia; Uniontown and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Point Pleasant, Pomeroy, Waterford, Rome, Crown Point, Albany, and West Point, New York.

The plane is to land at Newark airport at 9:15 p. m.

Five packages of mail were left in Washington as the flying couple was met by Representative Sol Bloom, director of the United States George Washington bi-centennial commission.

They dropped a package of mail at the municipal airport here, and then sped on towards Wakefield, the next point on the itinerary. The arrival from Washington was 10 minutes ahead of schedule.

Physician Seeks Cheap Means of Relieving Hay Fever.

CHICAGO, July 25—Some 10,000,000 Americans are about to undergo their annual siege of sniff and sneeze.

And while they are doing it Dr. Clarence A. Johnson of the University of Illinois will be working patiently to find a neutralizing agent for hay fever that will be within the reach of a poor man's pocketbook.

BONUS FORCE HALTED NEAR WHITE HOUSE

Police Clubs Used Freely in Clashes with Radicals in War Vet Ranks.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Streets of Capital Scene of Battling; Many Vets Leaving City.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 25—Scuffling broke out and night sticks swung at 15th street and New York avenue today as police turned back the radical wing of the bonus marchers a block from the White House.

Two members of the radical "left wing" of the bonus army were arrested in the scuffle with police as they blocked all traffic in the immediate vicinity of the White House.

After the group, led by John Pace of Detroit, had been denied permission to turn down Pennsylvania avenue in front of the treasury, they crossed to the other side and attempted to continue the march toward the White House.

Burly policemen blocked the way and as they attempted to press on a brisk set-to started.

As one officer was tripped and fell to the street, another policeman knocked to the ground the bearded bonus marcher who had attacked his comrade.

Change Course

After the brief skirmish participated in by about a score of the marchers and half that number of police, the veterans proceeded eastward on New York avenue, away from the White House. They said they were headed for their billets.

They marched off after policemen had asked Pace where he was going.

"Well," the policeman said, pointing away from the White House, "walk in that direction."

"But we want to go to look at the White House," Pace said.

The policeman took him by the arm and started him directly away from the executive mansion. Pace went with only a slight show of resistance and his followers, after a few yells of disgust, followed him.

"Wall street government," was the principal shout.

Both of the men taken into custody struggled fiercely with the police and one had his shirt ripped to pieces before he was tossed into a patrol wagon.

Others Routed

Other members of the veterans' group immediately began to scatter as police rushed reinforcements and officers went through the throng ready for any eventualities.

Meantime the area about the White House was quiet with spectators cleared from the avenue and Lafayette park where members of the veterans' group had congregated earlier.

At 13th and F streets, in the heart of the business district as the main wing continued to their billets, one of the marchers snatched a policeman's pistol from its holster during a scuffle and ran rapidly down the street.

No shots were immediately fired, as police took up the chase.

The trouble at this intersection developed when an obdurate vet-

BORAH SPEECH DRAWS FIRE

Little Hope Seen for Debt Revision on Suggestion of Idaho Senator.

CANCELLATION PROPOSED

Administration Silent, but Sentiment of Congressmen Against Proposal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 25 — Animated discussions of war debts today found some congressional leaders predicting that if past comments are to be considered Senator Borah may find himself in the minority.

The debts question was revived by the Idaho Independent Republican's speech in which he said "cancellation of the debts in connection with, and as a part of a program, including the settlement of other war problems" would be in the interests of the United States.

There was no intimation of how the administration had received Borah's suggestion President Hoover refrained from commenting after reading the proposal. The state department, too, was silent as to its reaction.

But congressional leaders who were in town talked the question over. They conceded the proposal was important because Borah is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee and generally is recognized as an outstanding spokesman on international problems.

Senator Lewis, Illinois Democrat, found himself "little less than astonished" at the idea of placing the war debt question before a confer-

ROBBERS RANSACK HOME, GET $2,000

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF PIONEER AIRMAN

Santos-Dumont, World-Famous Research Flier, Dies in Brazil.

By The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 25—Alberto Santos-Dumont, known in South America as the "father of aviation," and contemporary of the Wright brothers in the early experiments of the 1900's, is dead.

The veteran flier of balloons, dirigibles and airplanes, most of whose exploits took place in France up to 1909, when he quit flying, succumbed at Sao Paulo yesterday to an illness contracted in France. He returned to Brazil over a year ago to try to regain his health.

He was 59 years old.

He was the son of Henri Dumont, an engineer by profession, but a coffee planter by vocation. He showed an early bent for mechanics and spent much of his time as a boy watching the machinery used for handling the coffee his father grew.

He went to Paris in 1891 and bought an automobile when he found balloons beyond his slender purse. For six years, with the automobile his "laboratory," he made an intensive study of internal combustion engines.

In 1898 he had constructed a dirigible and made his first flight in it from the Jardin D'Acclimation in Paris. With that flight his international reputation began.

Won Dutch Award

In 1901 he won the Dutch De La Meurthe prize of 100,000 francs for the first circuit flight from the French aero club at St. Cloud around the Eifel tower and return. He covered the distance in 30 minutes.

Two years later he built the first airport at Neuilly, just outside Paris. He kept a fleet of his dirigibles there and made frequent flights over the housetops of Paris.

It was two years after the Wright brothers made their first powered flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C., that Santos Dumont turned to heavier-than-air craft. In September, 1906, he took his box kite type plane off the ground at Bagatelle, France, and flew 230 feet at a rate of 18 miles an hour, four feet off the ground.

Two months later he rose 20 feet and flew 700 feet at 42 miles an hour.

Spends Night in Cornfield as Pants Are Taken

Modestly concealed by the tall stalks of waving corn, Lloyd B. Patterson of Daniels, W. Va., was found by Police Captain Ira Shrock in a corn field west of the city this morning, minus both his trousers and shoes.

Brought to police headquarters wrapped in a blanket carried in the police car, Patterson said he was walking along the Erie tracks about 10 p. m. yesterday when two men, one colored, stepped from behind a building.

The Negro, he said, asked him for a match. As he handed him a small box, the man struck Patterson on the head above the right temple. At the same time the white man struck him on the back of the head, knocking him unconscious.

He told the police when he awoke he found himself in a corn field minus his trousers and shoes and 60 cents which he had in his trouser pocket. He said he remained in the corn field until this morning when he hailed a passerby who called the police. Several bumps on his head and a black eye bore out his story of the attack. A pair of shoes provided by the police captain and a pair of trousers donated by a kindly disposed citizen completed his outfit. He was able to continue on his way.

MURDER TRIAL OF SIX UNDER WAY

By The Associated Press

IRONTON, O., July 25—Before a jury of 12 white men, opposing attorneys made their opening statements today in the murder trial of six white men accused of lynching Luke Murray, a Negro chauffeur from Atlanta, Ga.

Murray's body was found in the Ohio river several weeks ago after he had been forcibly removed from the South Point jail.

The defendants, Theodore Johnson, Taylor Napier, Clyde Elkins and Garland, Milford and Lawrence L. Massie, the state contends, either beat the Negro to death or caused him to drown.

STEAL MONEY HIDDEN IN CANS

A. D. Mitchell Home West of Marion Scene of Burglary Raid.

SEARCH IN ALL ROOMS

Currency Finally Found in Coal Bin; Sheriff and Aids Investigate.

Burglars obtained an amount of currency estimated at approximately $2,000 from the A. D. Mitchell farm home two and a half miles west of Marion on Harding highway Saturday night after ransacking every room in the house, it was reported this morning.

The money was contained in two Mason jars hidden in the coal bin. The burglars uncapped one of the jars and broke the other to obtain their loot.

The house was in complete disorder when the burglary was discovered by Mrs. Mitchell as she and her husband returned from a shopping trip to Marion Saturday at 10:30 p. m. They had been away from the house since 6 p. m.

Thorough Search Made

Drawers of all stands and bureaus had been pulled out and their contents had been dumped on the floor, rugs and carpets had been rolled back or completely overturned, bedclothing was strewn over the floors, cupboards and linen closets had been emptied on the floors, and even the cupboards of canned fruit and vegetables in the cellar had been moved in the search.

Nothing of value, besides the money, was missing excepting a revolver.

A small amount of money hidden in a vase of artificial flowers by Mrs. Mitchell was the only money in the house overlooked.

Mrs. Mitchell, who walked to the house as her husband placed their automobile in the garage, said that a lamp had been left burning in a closet under a stairway, and another in a side room was also lit. A side door, locked when the Mitchell's left the house, was standing open.

Saturday night's burglary was the second time the house had been entered in recent years. The first burglary several years ago netted an intruder a shotgun.

The amount of ransacking done Saturday night indicated that more than one person had made the search.

Mr. Mitchell this morning said that an exact estimate of the missing amount could not be made until he checked over recent payments he had made.

Sheriff C. C. Fye and deputies made a search of the house for clues, but found little that might assist in the capture of the burglars.

The theft of a roll of bills and checks totaling approximately $160 from the White Front meat market on East Center street was reported to the police shortly before noon today.

The money and checks which had been placed in a container in the cashier's office, is believed to have been taken by someone who had entered the office to use the telephone.

Employes of the market refused to comment on the theft. Police, however, said a number of persons had entered the office to use the phone during the morning and it is believed one of these took the roll from the container. A description of several who had used the phone was given police.

HINTS MELLON IS TO RESIGN

London Newspaper Says Ambassador Is Expected To Quit on Arriving in U. S.

REPORT IS UNCONFIRMED

He Declares Trip Home Is Without Political Significance.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 25—The Daily Herald said today Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon "is expected to resign" when he arrives in Washington on his present trip to the United States. "It is believed he will tell President Hoover the coming negotiations on war debts should be in the hands of a younger man than he," the Herald added.

The London newspapers have been making something of a mystery of the ambassador's trip home ever since he left here a week ago today, declaring he was going to the United States for a holiday, taking advantage of a dull period in embassy work.

He, himself said the trip had no political significance.

Today, however, his leaving was coupled with the departure of the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, from Washington and other newspapers besides the Herald printed dispatches from New York and Washington speculating on the coincidence.

Before he left here the ambassador indicated to his associates he intended to remain in the United States two or three weeks and be back in London before the end of August. So far as was known in official circles here today his plans have not been changed.

There has been no official intimation whatever that he had any intention of relinquishing his post. The visit is purely personal, it was said, and was planned some time ago.

Friend Gone

(Will Rogers Special)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., July 25—Our world of "make believe" is sad. Scores of comedians are not funny, hundreds of "America's most beautiful girls" are not gay. Our benefactor has passed away.

He picked us from all walks of life, he led us into what little fame we achieved. He remained our friend regardless of our usefulness to him as an entertainer. He brought beauty into the entertaining world.

The profession of acting must be necessary, for it exist in every race, and every language. And to have been the master amusement provider of your generation, surely a life's work was accomplished.

And he left something on earth that hundreds of us will treasure till our curtains fall and that was a "badge." A badge which we were proud, and never ashamed of, and wanted the world to read the lettering on it, "I worked for Ziegfeld."

So goodby, Flo, save a spot for me, for you will put on a show up there some day that will knock their eye out.

WELSH SINGERS OPEN CHAUTAUQUA HERE

Chorus Receives Ovation on Appearance Here at Garfield Park Pavilion.

An outstanding musical program by the Welsh Imperial Singers last night and a union vesper service yesterday afternoon in which congregations of a large number of churches in the city took part, marked the opening of the five-day Chautauqua program in the Chautauqua pavilion at Garfield park.

Music also featured the afternoon program when a community choir under the direction of William L. Dowler and members of the Marion Civic orchestra, of which Bertram D. Myers is leader, presented several selections preceding the address of Fred L. Rosemond of Columbus, Bible student and lay lecturer. The afternoon program was open to every one whether holders of Chautauqua tickets or not.

Set High Standard

Members of the Welsh Imperial Singers, under the direction of R. Festyn Davies, set a high mark for entertainers on the remainder of the Chautauqua program in their hour's concert of chorus and solo numbers, and music lovers were entertained with a delightful recital of musical artistry.

The numbers, announced by the director from a repertoire of 100 selections, included many old and new favorites and the singers were generous in their encore numbers. The chorus numbers were sung with vim and rhythm, shading into colorful and mellow tones under the effective leadership of the brilliant director. Solo numbers were equally delightful and brought sincere and prolonged applause from the audience.

The program was presented in two parts and opened with "The March of the Men of Harlech," with which the singers always pre-

PLANS FEDERAL AID FOR OHIO HIGHWAYS

Highway Director Estimates Road Workmen Will Receive $1,500,000 of Total.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 25—Tentative plans for use of the $4,490,000 apportioned to Ohio by the federal government for federal aid highway construction were prepared today by O. W. Merrell, state highway director.

Although details have not been worked out, Merrell estimated that workmen on the contracts will receive $1,500,000 of the funds and indirect labor used in manufacture of materials will be paid $2,250,000.

Under the bill appropriating the $120,000,000 federal aid fund for highway unemployment relief work the money apportioned to a state may be substituted for state funds already set aside for construction of federal aid highways. All contracts under the emergency aid funds must be completed by June 30, 1935.

Merrell said the contracts will carry stipulations of the minimum wages to be paid, a clause requiring that unemployed labor be used, and probably a statement limiting the hours that any man may work each week.

The federal funds will assist Ohio in carrying out its entire highway program for 1932. Decreased revenues had previously indicated that the program as laid out in the spring must be curtailed.

Use of the federal funds on the nine contracts which have been cancelled will increase approximately $720,000 in state funds which will be apportioned to improvements on the state system.

CARETAKER FINDS VEGETABLE THIEF

Van Vaughn, caretaker at the summer home of Harvey Gracely on the Campbell road, who recently captured two men in the act of stealing vegetables from the Gracely garden, encountered the third vegetable thief early yesterday morning when he visited the garden.

Vaughn in a report to the police said the man fled at his approach and that he fired one shot from a revolver which he believed had taken effect. As he fired he told the police, the man raised one leg as if struck. He continued running, however, and escaped in a light truck which had been parked some distance from the garden. A quantity of vegetables which had been gathered by the thief were found by Vaughn.

Scott and the officers went into conference with Prosecuting Attorney Cunningham and Sheriff Gail Sesler. Scott was accompanied by General Harold Bush, in charge of guardsmen in the Hocking Valley mine strike district, and Lieutenant Smith Meyers of Columbus, who conducted the probe.

The Columbus girl was killed when she was thrown from the auto of John Schmidt, also of Columbus. Scott had been sent to Columbus with the truck and was returning to Nelsonville when the accident occurred.

The guard officials said they would lay the result of their probe before county officials, who refrained from making any statement until they had studied the officers' report.

MOONSHINERS NOW MAKING GASOLINE

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., July 25—You're heard of the gasoline bootlegger, so now keep your eyes peeled for another type of lawbreaker—the gasoline moonshiner.

That is the warning issued by Fred Caley, secretary of the Cleveland Automobile club, who declared moonshiners have discovered that there is more profit in distilling and selling gasoline, so long as the tax can be evaded, than in manufacturing and market bootleg liquor.

According to Caley, the new type of undercover business was revealed recently when it was discovered that a large quantity of oil had been stolen from an oil company's storage tanks in New Straitsville.

Tracing the stolen oil to an abandoned mine, investigators discovered a complete moonshiner's outfit converted to produce gasoline instead of whiskey, Caley said.

Y., July 25—Thirteen Nassau county policemen were arraigned and pleaded not guilty today to indictments charging them variously with manslaughter in the first degree, assault in the second degree and with being accessory to a felony in connection with the third-degree death of Hyman Stark, robbery suspect.

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards announced the nature of the impounded indictments, which were handed up sealed late last Friday, a few minutes before the arraignments.

The five charged with manslaughter were Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen, Lieut. Jesse Mayforth, Detective Leslie Pearsal, Detective Harry Zander and Sergeant of Detectives Charles Wesser.

All of these, with the exception of Tappan were charged with second degree murder in warrants issued by Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink after a John Doe hearing. Tappen was named as accessory in Steinbrink's charges.

once controlled by debtors to the United States.

Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican who heads the finance committee, expressed an inability to see "why we should make further sacrifices."

Others, including Representative Rainey of Illinois, house Democratic leader, stuck to their positions that the attitude of congress has not changed.

This group predicted that the Idahoan would be unlikely to find much support for his plan when congress reconvenes in December.

Europe Sees Hope of Debt Revision

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 25 — "Borah's conversion," as London newspapers called the senator's suggestion for a conference on war debts, was hailed here today as "a considerable straw in a wind that is beginning to blow" in the United States for debt devision.

"Europe will welcome wholeheartedly so notable a conversion as Senator Borah's," the Telegraph said. "His courage and candor will receive unstinted recognition in this country and elsewhere

"What Borah says," the News-Chronicle commented, "is generally what the mass of Americans is thinking. It is therefore supremely welcome that he now publicly declares in favor of a conference."

The Daily Express said it was too early "to read into Senator Borah's words a determination of the American people to face the debt problem in a realist way," but it added that "Borah is a shrewd man and a fairly considerable straw in the wind that is beginning to blow."

POLICE ORDER HALTS PROGRAM AT MARKET

Plans for "Broadcast" End Abruptly as 1911 Ordinance Is Evoked.

Plans for a second broadcast sponsored by merchants in the Miller Market Saturday, came to an abrupt end when police notified those in charge that the broadcast could not take place if a loud speaker carried the program into the street. The ban was also placed on radio programs broadcast from the front of several stores on Main and Center streets.

Complaints of several professional men who have offices in the vicinity of the stores that the music had annoyed them led to the resurrection of an ordinance passed by city council in 1911 prohibiting the playing of any musical intrument in front of a theater or other public building.

A program in which several radio entertainers from Mansfield took part, was broadcast from the Miller market one week ago.

ASSASSIN OF FRENCH PRESIDENT ON TRIAL

Public Hearing of Doumer Slaying Opens in Paris Court.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 25—Paul Gorguloff, the Russian who assassinated President Doumer last May, went on trial for his life today in the court of Assizes.

Two months in the Sante prison had left their mark on him, for he seemed a shadow of the powerful man who fought off half a dozen persons after he had killed the aged president. As he entered the courtroom he carried under his arm a volume of the memoirs he had written in his cell.

The small chamber was filled with attorneys and reporters and the fifty spectators required by the law for a public trial. After the preliminary review of his life, Henri Geraud, his counsel, asked for another medical examination. On several occasions alienists have pronounced Gorguloff sane.

BLAST DAMAGES BUS LINE GARAGE

10 Men Injured, 1 Missing in Explosion at St. Louis.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25 — Ten men were injured, three seriously, and one man was missing in an explosion today which wrecked the front end of the large service garage of Eckwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., while about 25 mechanics and bus drivers were in the building.

The missing man was Joseph Barber, district passenger agent of the lines from Chicago, whose car was being refueled at the time of the blast. Firemen searched the wreckage for him. All others known to have been in the building were accounted for.

Firemen expressed belief the explosion was caused by accidental ignition of a gasoline tank. Windows for a distance of seven blocks were broken. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

eran refused to leave the sidewalk as ordered by a policeman.

He swung at the officer. Although most of his companions had followed police orders, some returned to join in the affray.

Soon there were half a dozen separate melees going full tilt, short-lived but active.

Meanwhile, the dwindling army of bonus seekers today confronted either a court battle or evacuation of all land the government owns in the capital.

An order to get off federal property by midnight tonight still was in force. Leaders called conferences to see whether a court injunction could prevent enforcement of this edict.

At the same time, their forces rapidly diminished. The veterans' administration up to midnight last night—when the loans ceased to be available — had received applications from 5,509 veterans for advances against bonus certificates for transportation back home.

Veterans' administration officials said 4,298 tickets actually had been bought for marchers and 4,118 had left town.

BOAT OVERTURNED; TEN BELIEVED DEAD

Six Drowned, Four Missing in Legion Picnic Tragedy in California.

By The Associated Press

EUREKA, Calif., July 25— Ten persons were believed drowned when ocean breakers overturned a 26-foot speed craft carrying a picnic party as the motor died at the mouth of the Eel river near here late yesterday.

Five bodies had been recovered today. The coroner reported one other was known to have drowned, and four persons were missing. Seven were reported rescued.

Coast guardsmen and volunteers patrolled the shore line today in search of other bodies.

The disaster brought tragedy to the annual Humboldt county American Legion picnic, whose merrymakers wknessed the accident. Those in the boat were members of the picnic party.

contribution to aeronautics however. He designed it after a period of experiments with seaplanes which was not very successful.

He had many accidents, but none of them resulted seriously until he was badly hurt in 1900, just before he quit flying.

Once his plane crashed into the top of a tree on the estate of Princess Isabelle, daughter of Don Pedro II of Brazil. Santos-Dumont was so interested in the mechanics of the incident that he stayed up in the tree, examining the wreckage.

Jeered by Yanks

He visited the United States in the days when flying was still considered a business for crackbrained and was dubbed "the modern Darius Green" and laughed out of the country.

He offered his engineering services to France during the war but turned away later, declaring he could not bear to see the machines he had envisaged as instruments of better understanding between nations turned into the means of death and destruction.

In 1928, during a huge celebration for him in Brazil on his return from France, a large plane, named after him, crashed into the harbor at Rio De Janeiro as it circled the steamer on which he was arriving, killing all 14 occupants, including several women.

The shock bore heavily on him. He went back to Paris a month later, but his health began to fail and when he returned here in June last year he was a sick man. He retired immediately to Sao Paulo, where he has lived since.

The Brazilian government has planned a state funeral similar to those received by presidents of the republic. When political peace is restored in the country the body will be brought here from Sao Paulo for burial.

PREDICTS WET OHIO PLATFORM

Democrats To Take Stand for Repeal and Beer, Is Brunner Forecast.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., July 25—Pro- repeal, hot potato of the state Republican convention will be grabbed up enthusiastically by Ohio Democrats when they hold their state pow-wow here soon, State Chairman Henry J. Brunner predicts.

In addition, a "beer plank," calling for immediate modification of the Crabbe act, Ohio's leading prohibition law, may be adopted.

Almost a unanimous vote for a state repeal plank was forecast by Brunner due to the action of the Ohio Democratic caucus at the Chicago convention when a 50 to 1 vote was cast for repeal.

Republicans, after a revolt by drys were recently, defeated a repeal plank by the overwhelming vote of 708 to 139, and then unanimously adopted a plank endorsing the national convention's advocacy of resubmission only.

Democrats, who will hold their convention late in August or early in September, when Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Democratic presidential nominee, probably will deliver the keynote, apparently are "in line" for repeal, Brunner said.

The proposed "beer plank," which was discussed by the Ohio Republicans but never given the attention of the convention, would call for modification of the Ohio law to conform to the revisions of the Volstead act suggested in the National Democratic plank.

C. C. Crabbe, Columbus attorney who wrote the law in 1919, recently told International News Service he is convinced that Ohio cannot do away with prohibition without repealing or modifying the Crabbe act, regardless of how much legislating is done by congress.

The timidity of many Democrats about a beer plank is likely to be removed by the recent action of Governor George White in calling for "beer of good quality."

Democrats are so much in favor of repeal that there is no fight of any kind anticipated in the state convention over prohibition, according to Brunner, who said the question has not once been broached to him.

Brunner is attempting to get in touch with James A. Farley, Democratic national committee chairman, to press Ohio's invitation to Roosevelt to speak at the state convention. Brunner said he was confident Roosevelt would accept.

More Coins

REPORTS of old coins in what has almost become an "old coin" contest continue to arrive at The Star office. The oldest coin to date is a 10-cent piece owned by J. T. Foos residing west of Somerville which bears the date of 1785. Mr. Foos, who is 82 years of age, received the coin from his grandfather, John T. Lindsey, who brought it with him to this country from Tipperary county, Ireland. The coin, Mr. Foos says, will go to his great-granddaughter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Foos of Prospect.

Mrs. Willis E. Stewart of Spencer street has in her possession paper money in the denomination of five cents. The paper is badly worn from being carried and with age and the date can not be deciphered. She also has a number of old one cent coins, several half-cent coins, three cent pieces, a number of old-fashioned thick pennies, two-cent pieces the size of a nickel and a copper quarter bearing the date of 1858. The script and coins are part of a collection which has been in the family of Mrs. Stewart and some of them were the property of the late Aaron Kelter of Crawford county, a relative.

The date, 1794, proclaims the age of an old penny owned by Mrs. Margaret Bussard of 433 North State street, which is part of a large collection which belonged to her great-great-great-grandfather. The side bearing the date also has inscribed on it the word "Liberty" and the other side bears the inscription, "United States of America." Around the edge is inscribed "one-hundred for one dollar." One side also bears the profile of a person over whose shoulder is a spear topped by a cap. Mrs. Bussard also has a number of old pennies among them two dated 1802 and 1818 respectively.

Mrs. Mary Moody of R. F. D. No 4 at Galion reports the possession of a large one-cent piece bearing the date 1835. She also has in her collection a half-cent piece dated 1807.

Kill the Weed

PASSING a good idea along so that others may benefit from it is a good rule by which to live is the belief of A. A. Austin of 418 Cherry street. For this reason he called at The Star office recently with what he believes is a recipe to rid farm lands of burdock. Mr. Austin says that the burdock can be killed by cutting the root off an inch below where the leaves start growing with a sharp spade.

Keeps Word

R. G. SMALLWOOD, county treasurer, is a man of his word. If he promises anything, he fulfills the promise.

At least, that is the reputation he is acquiring in the courthouse.

Several days ago he promised Miss Edith Elbling, deputy to County Auditor Earl E. Thomas, that he would give her a "mess" of fish. This promise was made while the treasurer had been driving to Indian lake each night where his family is spending a vacation.

This week Miss Elbling received a small box postmarked at a village on the lake. She opened the box to find the "mess" of fish packed therein. The "mess" consisted of two minnows, about an inch and a half in length, very carefully laid in cotton.

Large Crowds Greet Two Band Concerts in City

Perfect weather with hundreds of appreciative listeners greeted the two local band concerts in the business district Saturday night.

The first concert given by the Eagles band on the lawn at the county jail on North State street started at 7:30 and was finished just a few minutes before the concert given by the Municipal band started on the court house esplanade.

The sidewalk and lawn at the county jail was crowded with listeners when the Eagles band under the direction of Dean Williams began its concert at 7:30 p. m. Lights had been installed across the lawn and chairs provided for the players. At the conclusion of the program, members of the band were served refreshments.

An amplifying system installed at the courthouse esplanade helped to carry the concert given by the Municipal band to all parts of the business district. A microphone placed near the players carried the music to a loudspeaker placed on top of an automobile parked at the intersection of Center and Main streets. Two high powered lights provided illumination for the players.

The concert, directed by N. M. Parshall, started promptly at 8 p. m. and was featured by a vocal solo by John Courtney, a member of the band, who sang "The Sunshine of Your Smiles."

The concert was the first of a series of four Saturday night concerts to be given by the Municipal band, the second will be given next Saturday night. The concerts were arranged by John S. Muntsinger and are being given through the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and the merchants.

Whether a second concert will be given by the Eagles band next Saturday night was not known by members of the organization Saturday night.

My Beauty Hint

BY HELEN TWELVETREES

LONG ago I learned that facial massages may be harmful. I was told that there are certain muscles which must not be rubbed up and others that must not be rubbed down.

So now, at night, after cleansing my face, I apply a good cold cream and pat it gently, using only my finger tips.

I believe I have kept away sagging muscles by this 15-minute nightly operation.

followed by a baritone solo, "My Home," sung by Howell Williams.

Youngest in Company

"O Peaceful Night," by the chorus was followed by Balfe's "Killarney," also by the chorus and a tenor solo, "Just for Today," Seaver, sung by Elwyn Edwards. Mr. Edwards responded to an encore with an equally pleasing number, "King of the Road am I." Mr. Edwards who is 20, is the youngest member of the company.

"Leibestraum," Handel, another chorus number was followed by "Sink, Sink Red Sun," Del Reigo, sung by Henry Jones, who also responded to an encore with "Sympathy." Marshall. A special request number, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," was given a new interpretation by the chorus which was followed by a tenor solo, "Asra," Ernest Newton colorfully interpretation by Jabez Trevor. Mr. Trevor's encore number was "I Know a Lovely Garden." The first part of the program concluded with a chorus number, "Pilgrim's Chorus" from Wagner's "Tannhauser."

The singers were supported throughout their concert by Norman Evans at the piano.

"Goin' Home" from Dvorak's "New World Symphony," opened the second part of the program, a request number, and Harry Williams, tenor sang "That Little Room of Dreams" and responded to an encore with "Three Green Bonnets." "The Lost Chord," Sullivan was followed by a beautiful and unusual interpretation of "The Sweet By and By" by the chorus. The latter number was sung without the piano accompaniment.

Jack Newbury, bass, sang "Easter Flowers," Martin and responded to an encore with "Oh, It's Quiet Down Here." The program concluded with a chorus number, "All Through the Night," a Welsh hymn sung in Welsh. The number was effectively presented and the voices produced the tones of a pipe organ as the selection came to a close. The number was sung by the chorus by special request before the Duke of York before the company sailed for this country a few years ago.

Attorney Speaks

Blame for today's depression was laid to the fact that people have been going their own way in indifference to God and God's part in life, by Fred L. Rosemond of Columbus in his talk at the vesper services yesterday afternoon at the Chautauqua pavilion.

Mr. Rosemond, a prominent Columbus attorney and widely known for his activities in church and Sunday school work, spoke on "The Cause of the Depression." Approximately 1,000 persons attended the services which were arranged by the Marion County Ministerial association to take the place of the summer Sunday night union services.

"We haven't considered Him as big as He is," Mr. Rosemond declared. "We have been thinking Him as small as ourselves," Mr. Rosemond likened present-day conditions to the situation in the Book of Judges

Two of the inspirational features of the vesper service were the community chair directed by William L. Dowler and the Marion Civic orchestra, conducted by Bert D. Myers. Their selections were encored heartily after each presentation. The choir, composed of approximately 150 voices from church choirs in the city and county, sang following three numbers by the orchestra.

The service opened with three songs by the congregation, led by Mr. Dowler. Rev. Carl V. Roop of the First United Brethren church, president of the Ministerial association, gave the invocation and in a brief statement outlined the origin and nature of the union services.

A free-will offering covered the expenses of the service, officers of the association said this morning.

Rev. J. A. Carriker of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church introduced both Mr. Rosemond and R. E. Bendell of Chicago, who will preside as platform superintendent for the week's Chautauqua program. Mr. Bendell gave a resume of the program.

Rev. G. G. Canfield of the First Church of the Brethren offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

continuing, of course, to sell goods to those other countries. Canada proposes to Britain that she will buy from Lancashire mills textile products that Canada now buys mainly in New England. Great Britain in return is to stop buying mutton, beef, hides, wheat, etc., from the Argentine, the U. S. A. and other sources non-British. Canada demands, particularly, that Britain cease buying of Russia.

Everything at Ottawa is done frankly, openly, strictly in accordance with the rights of the dominions and mother country. If the units of the British Empire can deal among themselves free of tariff, as our 48 states deal among themselves, they should do it.

Other nations should, and probably will, make plans to meet a widespread "closed market."

To say that one-quarter of the world's population is represented at Ottawa is almost true, but less important than it sounds.

The "one-quarter" includes three hundred millions in India, which, in the first place, cannot buy half as much as the state of New York alone and, in the second place, is engaged in a Gandhi effort to boycott British goods.

THE COUNTRY, doubtless, will arrange with other fragments of civilization outside of "the empire" to carry on trade.

You might even hear from Washington that we are planning to forgive Russia for choosing her own kind of government, as we chose ours some time back.

The question most important to the empire is this: "Can Great Britain, not self-supporting, except by export trade, and not understanding economical mass production in machinery or steel, find in her dominions enough unselfishness to make the 'Buy British' campaign a success?"

The mighty empire is making a gigantic experiment. Success would perpetuate and increase its power. Failure might reduce the British islands to a sort of "European home office" for the growing dominions, or even mean an end of the empire.

With their present limited strength in money and white population, it would seem that the dominions would be foolish to drop Mother Britannia's skirts for the present.

EIGHTEEN-YEAR-OLD "Curley" Harper stole cookies from a bakery and was locked up. With consent of the police his mother entered his cell, took his leather belt and beat him with it "at least fifty times," so says the Associated Press. "Curley," submitting to the beating, said he had run away from home, because of previous beatings, and was hungry when he stole the cookies.

If a dog were thus treated the "cruelty society" would interfere. If a well-bred puppy or horse were beaten in that way the owner would complain, knowing that his animal would be made worthless, its spirit broken.

Human beings are not exactly animals, of course, but the police, congratulating that mother on her firmness, might better have said to her: "Whatever that boy is, thief or good-for-nothing, you and his father made him. You cannot change by mere brutality a creature from whom you are responsible."

MR. FARLEY, manager of the Roosevelt campaign, says he is sure of "every state except five." It is dangerous to be sure so far in advance, and Mr. Farley knows that. His prediction is based on the wise maxim: "To convince others, be yourself convinced."

The administration, with all its patronage and employes, backed by the treasury's billions that can be placed here and there, has great power. Also, organized capital has decided that it does not want Governor Roosevelt, and there is one other complication, not publicly discussed, that will exercise influence in certain important states.

Bleaching Formula Is Safe Aid in Removal of Unsightly Hair

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

SUPERFLUOUS hair is one of woman's biggest problems in her fight for beauty. And since the legs, when once treated, seem to produce a more virulent growth of superfluous hair than any other part of the body, with summer just around the corner and skirts for sports wear shorter and hose sheerer, if worn at all—let's consider the problem a little.

One plan that works out very nicely is to follow the removal of superfluous hair with bleaching; but remember that, regardless of what method you use for removing superfluous hair from the legs, you must wait 24 hours, and then apply a liberal amount of the peroxide and ammonia formula I am giving you today. Thereafter, repeat this application daily until the new growth is light in color. You'll find that such bleaching makes the need of removal less frequent.

This is the formula for bleaching superfluous hair on legs: To three tablespoonfuls of seventeen (17) volume peroxide add six drops of ordinary household ammonia. Mix thoroughly and pat over the area where the hair has been removed, but not until 24 hours after removal; then repeat every day until removal is necessary again.

An Important Precaution

Instead of bleaching, a piece of refined toilet pumice, which comes in cake or bar form, can be smoothed over the legs every day. If kept up, this will wear off the new growth as soon as it appears above the surface of the skin. You must be careful, however, not to rub the pumice too vigorously over the skin. Also—and this is very important—never use any preparation for the removal of hair for at least twenty-four hours after having used the pumice stone.

Sometimes the pumice stone scratches the skin a little, but enough, perhaps, to make scratches visible to the naked eyes, or to cause any irritation of the skin at all, unless some chemical, such as a depilatory or a bleaching preparation is used. But these slight scratches may be present, although so small you can't see them; so you can't afford to take the chance that they aren't there.

Therefore, I repeat, regardless of what you think the condition is, never use any bleaching or depilatory preparation for at least twenty-four hours after using pumice stone. The pumice stone idea is a good one, and is followed by hundreds of women. To use it with safety requires only that one precautionary measure, so far as I have been able to determine.

Another point which always should be mentioned when discussing the removal of superfluous hair with depilatories is that such preparations never should be applied with the hands. Always use whatever applier is included in each package for this purpose. The finger nails and the hair are the same substance, and any chemical which removes superfluous hair also will eat your finger nails, if permitted to come in contact with them for any length of time.

An apartment house will be erected in Vienna that will have 12 stories of reinforced concrete, surmounted by two stories having glass walls.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

News of John

SOMETIMES Sondra took out her wedding ring and looked at it wondering if it really belonged to her—it seemed such an eternity since that hurried ceremony—that brief honeymoon.

Mark had written from the only part of the ship had touched—a long passionate letter which she knew dictated by heart, and yet there was she had the unreal feeling that it was merely something beautiful and quite apart from herself—the love of which he wrote so eloquently.

Of course if the door opened and he suddenly came in everything would be just as it was when they parted—she would recapture the old joy and happiness.

Sondra closed her eyes for a moment and tried to visualize his face but somehow even that seemed to evade her.

She sighed and turned restlessly over.

Flora was out—when was she ever at home?—and for once in her life Sondra had an empty afternoon.

It was too wet to go out, and there was nowhere that she wanted to go.

John Anderson was still abroad; he had heard from him once or twice—from Paris, Vienna—Berlin—short, friendly letters which told her little or nothing, except that he was moving about and could give no fixed address except his bankers.

It was strange that she should miss him more than she missed Mark. It worried her, too, because it seemed all wrong that the man whom she loved and whose wife she was seemed to have faded into a far horizon, while the other, for whom she cared nothing, was always in her thoughts.

"It's because I'm so used to him," was the explanation she found. "There was always John to turn to—it's unkind of him to have stayed away so long."

She lit a cigaret and took up a rotogravure section, listlessly turning the pages.

The same old photographs of society people — opening bazaars, smiling into the camera with babies on their laps, dressed up in fancy costumes for charity performances, vying with each other for the most publicity.

Sondra yawned; if only something new and exciting would happen!

She flicked over another page and found herself looking at John Anderson.

"Mr. John Anderson, the well-known financier, and Miss Nathalie Symons—at Biarritz."

John at Biarritz! at this time of the year!

Sondra felt her face flushing. He had been in Vienna when he last wrote to her—and that was a week....no, 10 days ago.

And who was Nathalie Symons?

She was pretty enough, with a saucy, provoking smile.

Sondra threw the paper aside.

Was this the reason why John was staying away for so long?

She sat for a long time, lost in thought, vague discomfort in her heart.

If only Mark had not gone away—if only she had been brave enough to face life with him.

When Mark came home....Sondra's mind seemed to stop short with a quer little pain. He had only been gone a month, and already she was half dreading the day when he would return, asking herself tortuous questions as to what they would do with life or what life would do with them when they were together again.

At the back of Sondra's mind was an ever growing doubt about her marriage, an ever growing consciousness that it would have been better to wait.

And yet she knew that given those last two days over again she would have used them in just the same way.

She got up restlessly once more and looked out of the window.

The rain was not so heavy, and there was a faint light everywhere, as if the sun was trying to break through.

A taxi sped up the street and came to a standstill at the door. Sondra watched without much interest. Presently a man got out—a man in a queer check suit with a flaming red tie—Stephen Cassidy.

She was conscious of great surprise; Cass did not like Flora, and neither did she like him, so it was very seldom he called but now he spoke a word to the driver, evidently telling him to wait before he came on to the front door.

A moment later a maid was in the room.

"Will you see Mr. Cassidy, please, miss?"

"Ask him to come up," Sondra was glad of the diversion.

Cass came into the room wreathed in smiles, his hand outstretched. He always brought a sense of breeziness with him, of good cheer and unquenchable optimism. Sondra realized again as he gave her hand a bear's grip how tremendously she liked him.

73—THE FAITHFUL CHEAT

"Thought we'd go along together," he said without preamble "Know Mrs. Lomax is out, or I shouldn't have dared to call. Saw her on Fifth avenue half a hour ago. Oughtn't you to get your hat on?"

"I don't know what in the world you're talking about," Sondra said laughingly. "Wouldn't it be as well to explain?"

His face looked a blank for a moment, then he said:

"But you're coming, aren't you?"

She made a gesture of despair.

"Coming where? I'm not a thought-reader."

Cass explained at last.

"To the pier, of course. The boat's in at 6:40. John will be on it."

There was a profound silence.

"John!" Sondra said; she had lost color a little.

"Are you sure," she asked, with an effort.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, July 26

THE lunar aspects for this day point to a fairly routine state of affairs, albeit with some petty friction, vexations and annoyances both in business and in the private relations. But a mutual aspect presages the prospect of good contracts, agreements or affiliation to be attained by secret diplomacy, subtle agreement or by strategy of cleverness. There may be a singular twist or angle to affairs, or the mind may be turned to research or study of the occult or unusual.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of unusual or intriguing angles to affairs, with new or novel arrangements or plans with secret societies, mergers, or by peculiar understandings or irregular agreements. It would be well to be careful of strife and inharmony in private affairs. A child born on this day may be original, given to the peculiar, erratic, occult or curious, with probable talent of an inspirational or poetic phase in writing or art.

POINTS WAY TO LONG LIFE OF HAPPINESS

80-Year-Old Ohio Minister Gives 10 Rules for Guidance.

By International News Service

CHARDON, O., July 25—Hale and hearty at the age of 80, Rev. Charles W. Carroll, former pastor of the Hough Avenue Congregational church, Cleveland, has revealed his secret for long life and happiness—10 rules that have been his guide for years.

Rev. Carroll is a former superintendent of the Chardon public schools and for 34 years his students have gathered in annual reunion here. For the first time in all those years Rev. Carroll was unable to be present this year, but he sent his "boys and girls" his rules for perfect living. Here they are:

1—Be prepared to live in an imperfect world filled with imperfect people. Never become embittered by any calamity, for these things must come.

2—Start out to live a victorious life, and smile in the face of disaster.

3—Fit yourself for an occupation which you love. Then learn to work and play and pray.

4—Avoid all enslaving habits. Be a free man and woman, even in this cigaret age.

5—Keep fit. Think straight. Find a home. Find a faith.

6—Set out to find and to stress the good in the world.

7—Help all needy folk you meet into self-mastery. Ask little.

8—Fear nothing but sin.

9—Behold a personal Father in all nature.

10—Trust God in every experience of this life.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Wins Praise from Dickey for Her Clear Memory of Brixton's Route, While He Scolds Her for Risking Her Life.

THERE was that in Harry Underwood's voice, as he asked me my opinion of the voice that had called to Ronald and me from the darkness after Samuel Brixton had been felled, that told me he shared the doubt of the man's proclamation of his mission that had been in my own mind. I knew that my uncannily accurate memory, a gift that my mother's early and careful training had made useful, had unconsciously reproduced the inflections of the man's voice, and I did not wonder at Harry's question.

Not a Moonshiner

"I do not think he was a moonshiner, or that he had any interest in revenue agents," I said slowly. "I think he was pretending to be an ignorant mountaineer."

"That one word, 'Scram!' would cinch that," Dicky said. "That was the last word he said, wasn't it?"

"Yes, it seemed to be an afterthought."

"It's where he slipped up," Harry Underwood commented. "He was quite within the picture until then. A gangster or an ordinary cheap criminal would say 'Scram.', but not one of those hill-billies of the Jersey hinterlands. They haven't learned any new words since Washington crossed the Delaware."

"What about his voice?" Lillian struck in. "The way you reproduced it, there was something forced, a bit theatrical, in it, and I've seen your memory and mimicry at work too often not to know that you must have him down pat."

"I think the voice was forced and theatrical," I agreed. "My whole impression of the man was that he was acting a role."

Madge's Memroy

"Then I, for one, will bank on his being something else than a moonshiner," Harry Underwood said emphatically. "Which leads us to another conclusion. Do you realize, folks, that Mrs. Madge here may have found the trail to the hideout where the girls are being kept?"

"It has occurred to me," Dicky said dryly, "and while she ought to be shot at sunrise for turning the trick, it's ten to one she has turned it. What about it, old dear?" He turned to me abruptly. "Can you draw a map of the road you took tonight, with all of the cross roads you didn't take marked, so that they can't be mistaken for the real thing?"

"That's a tall order," Harry Underwood deprecated.

"Not too tall for mein frau if she had her memory in working order," Dick said, and I thrilled to the tribute as if it were given for something creditable I had done instead of being a recognition of my uncanny memory, for which I am in no wise responsible. It always has been an unexplainable gift, and it was fostered by my mother.

"I think I can give you a fairly accurate map," I said, and almost before I had finished the words, Mary had unfolded a card table before me and spread out paper and pencils.

"I'm so excited, I could scream," she exclaimed, and through the calm I had imposed upon myself there welled up an echo to her cry that did not, however, pass my lips.

For the next few minutes I charted the route Ronald and I had taken, while the others, knowing my dislike of having anyone near me when I work, withdrew to the other end of the room. I knew vaguely from overhearing part of their low-toned colloquy that they were discussing Samuel Brixton, but my first real knowledge of what they were saying came as I marked upon the map before me the stile that had ended our journey, and put down my pencil with the knowledge that my task, whether worth anything or not, was completed.

On the Right Track

"If he isn't involved, it seems awful to leave him up there in the power of those " Lillian's voice trailed away as if she could find no epithet strong enough to describe the kidnapers who, according to her evident belief, were responsible for the attack upon Samuel Brixton.

"But what else can we do, Lil?" Dicky argued. "We can't risk the safety of the girls in order to rescue this fellow, who, if he isn't guilty of helping in this thing, is so tarred with it that he'll have to have a long session with a dry cleaner before he's presentable again. We have enough of a job on hands today without worrying over Brixton. Ah, there, Madge, map finished? Let's have a look."

He scanned the map I had drawn carefully, and then struck his hand against it.

"That's the one part of the terrain I didn't make yesterday," he said. "I'll bet when I go over it today I'll find that lake and trees Marion described. Maybe I'm wrong, but I've got a hunch, Lil, that we're nearly out of the woods."

CHESTER MORRIS IN STATE PICTURE

Chester Morris as John Hawks heads the cast of characters in "Corsair" which will open Tuesday for a two-day run at the State theater.

When "Johnny" runs the length of the field for the touchdown that brings victory to his small college team over the champion eastern team, he becomes the hero of the hour. That is, to everyone but Alison Corning, played by Alison Loyd.

From the office of Alison's father on Wall street to a gang of hi-jacking rum runners in John's path in his quest for wealth. He selects the fleet of Big John, one of the biggest fleets of rum runners to hi-jack and his booty runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Alison is aboard John's boat as a stowaway when he sets out to hi-jack the rum runner and the excitement increases when it is discovered that there is a plot to blow up his vessel. John keeps his appointment with Alison's father and also gets his check for twice the amount due for the cargo. Here affairs take a different turn and John finds himself on another job and in a different environment.

"Attorney for the Defense," which will close Tuesday at the Ohio, stands on its own merits as one of the best lawyer-courtroom pictures of the season. Edmund Lowe is immense as the district attorney who turns to defend criminals instead of prosecuting them when he finds he has sent an innocent man to the chair. The picture carries a punch, both in lines and acting, and the fine courtroom scene introduces a few new quirks that add to the suspense. Evelyn Brent and Constance Cummings are excellent as the two women in Lowe's life. Donald Dillaway plays a minor role well and Dorothy Peterson has a small part. Lowe has an eye on the governor's chair and women, Miss Brent especially, are his pastime. Miss Cummings is his devoted secretary who sticks with him through a murder trial in which he is his own defense attorney. He is accused of the murder of Miss Brent and acts as his own attorney. The courtroom scene of his own defense is brilliant and Miss Brent's murderer is brought to light in a dramatic manner. The comedy in the picture is at times outright and again subtle. Altogether, the picture offers great entertainment. Short subjects complete the bill.

Statehouse Trees Saved in War on Caterpillars

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 25—The beautiful old trees on Ohio's statehouse lawn had held their own against just about everything—many of them for nearly 100 years—when this summer's record mobilization of caterpillars came humping in.

Then, despite the efforts of workmen, the invaders started clipping away at the leaves until many of the trees were almost denuded.

But once more the older trees, as well as those more recently planted were saved when P. J. Kirwin, superintendent of grounds, rallied the help and armed with a poison spray, went out to meet and conquered the marauders.

Kirwin hooked a heel over the edge of a swivel chair in his office and, hugging a knee, told all about the victory.

Attack Is Overwhelming

"There were so many caterpillars," he began, "that we didn't know what to do. They rolled up out of the grass and went to work on those trees like fury.

"One tree—a maple—was denuded completely.

"We tried a little of this and a little of that. Then we banded the trees with cotton. (That was to keep the pests from crawling up the trunks to get at the leaves. They can't get over the cotton.) But they already had laid their eggs up in the branches.

"So, it wasn't long until they were as bad in the tops as ever."

It was a spray that finally got 'em, Kirwin continued—a spray mixed from 25 pounds of sulphur, 25 pounds of unslacked lime and 2½ pounds of arsenic of lead. It was brought to a boil and then sprayed on the trees.

"Why, it was so effective that even the denuded maple picked up and now it's sprouting new leaves. No fooling.

Kept on Coming

"There were, I'll bet, 10,000 caterpillars on the trunk of that maple alone. The spray would kill them and they'd heap up around on the ground. But in an hour there'd be that many more crawling back up out of the grass.

"Yep," Kirwin concluded unhooking his heel off his chair and stretching under the desk, "it was some invasion. But that spray stopped 'em. And it will stop the caterpillars anywhere, providing it's used frequently enough."

Each summer brings a battle to protect the statehouse trees against disease.

About one-third of all Swiss motion picture theaters are equipped with sound apparatus, of which about one-third have American systems.

Chief on Vacation.

Police Chief W. E. Marks left Saturday for his annual 12-day vacation, a part of which time the chief said he expected to spend at the policemen's and firemen's cottage on Lake Erie. Police Captain Ira Shrock will be in charge of the department during the absence of the chief.

Saturday Night Music.

Marion's summer series of uptown Saturday night band concerts has been launched and band music has again proved its merit as something certain to attract and entertain a large crowd.

Although Saturday night has always been an occasion for thousands of people from Marion and nearby localities to assemble in the uptown business district, the throng on the closing night of last week far outnumbered the usual assembly. It began to make its appearance early in the evening and by the time the Eagles' band started playing on North State street the scene was one reminding of a circus day.

Later the Municipal band began its program on the courthouse esplanade and rounded out an evening of entertainment that was thoroughly enjoyed by thousands of persons, young and old.

With the passing of time, the public's viewpoint in regard to entertainment has undergone changes, and some features of this kind once popular have passed into the discard. But band music still carries all of the allurement and appeal that it has provided ever since its stirring notes first brightened and enlivened the spirits of an audience.

That the first Saturday night concerts were beneficial to all of the thousands who heard the music is beyond dispute. Doubtless all who were in the throng of listeners returned to their homes happier and more cheerful.

The plan is to continue the concerts throughout the summer, and that is something certain to meet with general public approval.

One suggestion might not be out of order. When the Municipal band was giving its program, only a small portion of the audience was able to see the musicians, which in a measure detracts from enjoyment of the listeners. If it were possible to provide a portable elevated platform for the band this one flaw in the entertainment would be eliminated.

Beauty Was His Business.

Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., was part of the times. His name was as well known as the names of statesmen, scholars and scientists. He represented something tangible in American imagination. Other theatrical producers dream feverishly about having the grip on publicity that he had.

Beauty—the glorification of the American girl—was his business, and publicity his fundamental policy. It was a good one and he developed it with all the bold strokes and deft touches that are at the command of the master showman. When the next generation asks who Florenz Ziegfeld was and why his name crops out in the conversation of its elders, they will have to explain that he was a theatrical producer who used his head and made his name a household word—for business purposes.

All the people who wanted to see his lavishly mounted shows and the beautiful girls he introduced to the public didn't buy tickets. Tens of thousands of them lived in communities whose entertainment was limited to weekly movies and an occasional last-stand stock company. But they knew about Ziegfeld and if they ever traveled to New York——! His potential audience was as great as the nation.

Death came when he still was high priest of the cult which worshipped at the feet of the beautiful American girl. Her glorification and his bold method of showmanship were his contributions to the age he lived in; he received, in return for them, a fortune ample for his needs. The turbulent profession he followed will labor long to bring forth another who can capture national imagination like original, ambitious Florenz Ziegfeld.

The Next Move.

Whatever results from the most recent shakeup in the tangle of international indebtedness on account of the war, it is as certain as anything can be that the United States will go through another fiscal year minus the payments due it and which have been written down as part of its expected revenue. It is expected that Germany's creditors, having canceled, provisionally, most of the reparations debt, will take advantage of the postponable clauses in their war debt agreements with the United States. They will be stalling for time; no other way could be more graceful.

Ninety days' notice of intention to postpone must be given. The United States will know where it stands by the middle of September, therefore. Payments are due, for the most part, in the middle of December. It is in anticipation of the forced readjustment of revenue estimates that predictions of even higher taxation to be levied by the next session of congress are being made. War debt payments due this year amount to $270,000,000, no inconsiderable sum to a nation operating in the red.

Thus, the next move in the war debt jam is destined to be an emergency action that partakes strongly of the nature of marking time in a Micawberish hope that something will turn up before circumstances demand another decision. Ironically enough, when the debt agreements were drawn, postponement was made advantageous to the United States in the long run. Most of them provide for postponement on account of principal only, but the deferred payments, themselves, bear interest at from 3½ to 4½ per cent. There is also grim humor in the fact that liberal provisions for postponement during the first years of repayment have just expired, but instead of the United States' position being improved thereby it never was worse.

The line of reasoning followed by those who believe war debts should be scaled down sharply is that by so doing this nation would be giving away values that no longer exist. They point out that the United States would be lucky to get 10 cents on the dollar if it tried to sell the Allied bonds in the open market. They claim, and with reason, that no one but a fool expects that Europe will be willing to continue payments until 1988, which is the year that stands at the close of the payment schedule. They advise taking as good a settlement as can be made and forgetting the rest.

Their argument may prevail in the perennial debate on the issue. There is much of good common sense in it. But many Americans will be wanting to know what would be the next step after scaling down the debts, say to 10 cents on the dollar. Would secondary bondholders then be asked to make a similar sacrifice? Last June 30 unmatured Liberty bonds, issued in 1917 and 1918 to provide for cash advances to the Allies and for American prosecution of the World war were outstanding in the volume of $8,201,314,550. Does this staggering sum represent another war debt that will be scaled down, or will this nation's taxpayers be obliged to dig down into their pockets again to pay themselves back, with interest, the money they borrowed from themselves? It is not too soon for policy makers to start thinking up an answer.

In a Test Period.

Insistence by Dr. Carl W. Sawyer that committees of Marion's Council of 100 engage actively in the work assigned to them is evidence of enthusiastic and capable leadership. Dr. Sawyer, who was foremost among those originating this plan for promoting the community's welfare and advancement, is convinced that it presents possibilities of substantial achievement and does not want it to fail through neglect or indifference.

Experience has shown that effective organization provides the best means of getting things done, in fact the only means that will accomplish appreciable results in undertakings of magnitude, like those relating to the general public. As an organization enterprise, the Council of 100 is one of the most complete and comprehensive ever devised in the city of Marion. It represents virtually every department and branch of community activities and service. With all of its participants entering into the project with thoroughness and enthusiasm equal to the spirit displayed by the chairman, Dr. Sawyer, success is virtually a certainty.

The Council of 100 has been launched at a time when the need for community organization and centralized effort is more urgent than it has been in many years. It also comes at a time when difficulties in maintaining the movement effectively are greater than would be the case under more flourishing economic conditions.

The tendency of public spirit and activity is naturally inclined downward when the general situation is following that trend, although the attitude of the public should be just to the contrary. Times such as these are when all citizens, especially those recognized as leaders in business, industry and civic enterprise, need to put forth their best and most determined efforts. This is a period which provides a real test for a community and the people who constitute it. Beyond doubt that test can be met most successfully through mutual cooperation and organization like that made possible through functioning of the Council of 100.

Dr. Sawyer and his associates in the enterprise are entitled to and certainly have the thanks of citizens generally for the work already done. The organization was mapped out and formed after months of careful study and preparation and since then there has been no let-up in efforts to carry out the program of community service. For all that has been accomplished, a major portion of the credit goes to Dr. Sawyer, who will see to it that much more is done for the public's good if his personal interest and aggressiveness can make this possible.

Several of the important committees gave reports at a recent meeting indicating that investigations into such vital matters as taxes, law enforcement, and home industries had been made. These reports provide an indication of the service to Marion that can be performed on a larger and more comprehensive scale if all committees connected with the Council of 100 give heed to Dr. Sawyer's instructions and urging.

Comment of the Press

PUBLIC PAYEES ON THE SPOT.

We have come into possession of the bureaucracy edition of the Herald and Review, a newspaper of Decatur, Macon county, Illinois. It is interesting. It shows a new approach to the journalistic duty of telling the taxpaying public about the evils of bureaucracy and inflated governmental costs. To the readers of the Herald and Review bureaucracy can no longer seem a strange monster eating up the public substance in far-off Washington. It becomes a hungry creature in the old home town.

The newspaper explained that throughout the county committees were meeting to talk about the high cost of government. It then reported that every tenth family in Macon county was supported in part or wholly by the public pay roll—federal, state, county, municipal, school or other division. What's more, the paper then proceeded to publish the names of every person drawing money from these sources, what they were supposed to do for the public service, and how much they got for it.

Imagine it! Five solid newspaper pages of names, hundreds and hundreds of names, one from every family. Perhaps it was embarrassing to some, but hardly as embarrassing as taxes. Even the argument that government of one sort or another seemed to be supporting the community doesn't sound convincing. Most citizens of Macon county must realize that they are seriously overgoverned.

The Enquirer might not be constitutionally averse to publishing such an impressive argument against the need for curtailment of government. But you will remember that in Macon, a county on only 50,000, five full pages were required to print the list. A little mathematics will show you the magnitude of the task of doing the same thing for Hamilton County.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, July 25, 1922.

With reports from all parts of the country revealing that as a result of the miners' strike, the coal shortage was becoming acute, forcing shutdowns of factories and endangering the operation of public utilities, the cabinet met in Washington to consider a plan for putting the country on a coal ration basis similar to that operated during the World war.

Josiah Bindley was speaker at the weekly meeting of the Marion Rotary club, taking as his subject "The Wholesale Grocer." He pointed out the importance of wholesalers or middlemen in the operation of business.

John M. Brigel, secretary of the committee which had charge of Marion's centennial celebration, received a letter from President Harding in which the President said he regarded "the centennial celebration as a very notable success of which the present-day Marion may well be proud."

Births reported for the day included a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mosher of East Center street, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miller of Edwards street and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Smith of Nile street.

The Marion County Federation of Women's clubs arranged for a social and picnic to be held Aug. 2 with Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Tex., past president of the general federation, as guest of honor.

Mrs. George Serreles, recently married, was given a miscellaneous shower at her home on South High street by members of the O. B. club.

Miss Zona Louise Griffin and Waide Leroy Smith, both of Marion, were united in marriage at the Baptist church parsonage in Bucyrus by Rev. D. A. Sheldon.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, July 25, 1912.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty of New York City announced that William Shapiro, who drove the automobile which carried the assassins of Herman Rosenthal, had turned state's evidence and would name every man who rode in the car and tell all he knew about the killing.

Charles F. Smith, Charles R. McMurray and O. J. Comer returned from Detroit where they attended the Grand Circuit races.

Sidney Katz, professor of chemistry in New Hampshire college at Durham, N. H., arrived for a visit of several weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Katz of Park Boulevard.

Miss Hazel McMasters was hostess to members of the J. E. Embroidery club at her home on Davida street.

Following a meeting of the Republican county central committee, it was announced that reelection of Charles M. Tobin as a member of the board of elections was apparently assured, which meant the defeat of Dr. C. J. Nichols, an applicant for the position.

City Solicitor Fred W. Warner reported that he was investigating complaints regarding the Marion Railway, Light & Power Co. charging a fare of five cents for children between the ages of 6 and 12. It was said that the franchise placed the fare at three cents.

In a statement issued at Columbus, Attorney General Timothy J. Hogan predicted that in the near future Ohio would have a law providing for a cent and a half per mile railroad fare instead of the prevailing two-cent rate.

Secretary of State Graves' report for 1911 on Ohio automobile statistics showed that Marion stood high in the number of automobiles owned by counties in this section of the state. The figures were as follows: Marion 490, Crawford 316, Morrow 135, Wyandot 255 and Richland 328. This gave Marion one automobile for every 60 inhabitants.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Most Contagious of Diseases of the Skin.

One of the skin diseases appearing during the summer months is called "impetigo contagiosa." Children are the usual victims, but it may affect adults. In men it involves the hairy part of the face and is commonly known as "barber's itch."

As its name implies, the ailment is a contagious inflammatory disease of the skin. It is caused by a germ that is easily passed from one individual to another.

At first the skin contains many blisters filled with pus. These blisters burst and dry on the skin, and the dried crusts appear to be stuck on, resembling wafers. Later the edges curl up and the crust drops off, leaving a reddish spot. This fades and eventually disappears.

This skin eruption is most common on the face and hands, but it may spread rapidly to the chest, fingers or legs.

This disease may be spread by infected dogs or cats, and where many children gather together, it is quickly transmitted from one child to another. In schools or in camps the disease is spread by infected towels and clothes, or by contact with infected persons. Adults sometimes acquire it in barber shops and beauty shops that are unsanitary, but more frequently they get it from children.

Impetigo is disagreeable, but fortunately never serious, except when it occurs in infants. Sometimes it is confused with eczema and psoriasis, but it differs from these diseases in that it rarely itches.

Children with eczema or psoriasis are often shunned by other children, for many mothers are under the impression that they are contagious. This is not true. Every precaution, however, should be taken against healthy children playing with children who have impetigo, because this is one of the most contagious of all skin diseases. The victim of impetigo should be kept out of school and away from other children.

The affected skin should be thoroughly cleansed with soap and warm water. The crusts should be removed. An ointment prescribed by a physician should then be applied to the skin. A one to two per cent ammoniated mercury ointment is usually beneficial. Avoid using strong medicines, and do not apply patent medicines or other remedies unless prescribed by your physician. Harm may result from the use of salves and ointments containing irritating ingredients.

With proper treatment, the disease should be cured in from one to three weeks. In severe cases stronger antiseptics may be necessary.

Please bear in mind that some medicines may be successful in the treatment of one skin disease but not in another. Many mild and unimportant skin disorders are irritated, and made serious by the use of wrong medicines.

If you suspect your child has impetigo, I advise that he be examined by a physician, to prevent unnecessary suffering, personal embarrassment and the spread of the disease.

NASH AND THE LAW.

An incident in the administration of Gov. George K. Nash gives evidence of the rugged character and believer in the strict enforcement of the law that he was. The village of Amesville, in the southeastern part of the state, had elected a trifling character who had drifted into the town shortly before as a tramp, to be its mayor. This was followed at once on the part of the mayor-elect, with an extended indulgence in his weakness for whisky, which carried over into his executive term.

It soon appeared that his election as a joke had proved to be anything but a joke.

A recently enacted law had placed power to remove mayors for cause, in the hands of the governor, and a delegation from Amesville soon asked the governor for relief from their tramp mayor. Governor Nash, however, declared that the voters had got just the kind of a mayor they had voted for and declined to act.

The call of the open road soon proved too strong for the tramp, and Amesville got relief from another quarter.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 25—Diary of a modern Pepys: In a serene morning of delicate air, to the tram to greet Carl Seitz, of Shanghai, and breakfasting at the Biltmore. Thence home and a gracious note from Helen Wills Moody, the tennis lady, to me the most personable of all athletic idols.

So boggling out my skit, and a merry chat with Baird Leonard over the telephone. With my wife to the Dave Hamptons to a tea for the novelist, Harold Bell Wright, and his lady, newly come from Arizona. And we talked of the Missouri Ozarks, the pandemonium of the world and pot likker.

Dinner on the Waldorf's Starlight Roof, talking to June and Ray Lillibridge, Fay Marbe and others. Later to a play, but the evening so warm we took a horse drawn carriage for a turn of the park. And the old jehu explained: "I allus take young folks the dark way," so flattering I bestowed an extra tupence.

Joe Frisco's take-off of a house detective is an imitation of a quick rap on the door and "Get her out!" And Jay C. Flippen greets Kate Smith with "Hello Folks!"

Among exhibits at the Hobby Show was the remains of a polecat called Shanghai Lil, placarded thus:

"Shanghai Lil is safe inside
A cage (she's only lent).
She was caught in the depression,
So she hasn't got a scent."

A diversion of the cocktail hour is to search out pretty feminine names in the telephone book, phone them and explain the idea. Lo, would they join the merry-makers on a dare? A lady who met a gentleman in this capricious fashion in a Central Park South hotel three months ago is now his wife.

Vincent Astor's de luxe apartment house in East End avenue—Ring Lardner's street — features what is known in realty circles as a maisonette. It is a 17-room duplex with a private entrance and, at depression prices, is listed at $14,500 yearly.

In one of the mind-wandering flashes just then, it occurred to me that the name of the actor, Oswald Perkins, starts off decidedly May fair and winds up completely contrary Jake.

In most department stores a manicure was 75 cents. Today it is 25. Facials once $5 are now $2. But the biggest tumble is in male barbering, especially on the Bowery. One shop near Broome offers a 5-cent shave and a 10-cent hair cut. And black eyes now are "un-moused" for a dime.

Jack Osterman is out front and riding hard among the best of Broadway's smart talkers. He comes of theatrical lineage, the son of Jake Rosenthal, long a stock company manager, and his wife, Kathryn Osterman, a superb repertoire actress whose wide and luminous beaux yeux made her a sweet heart of the sticks. Young Osterman started early in variety and was later spotted in revues. A few years ago he seemed in partial eclipse, but after a period of continence, foregoing hearty viands and living on lemon juice, he came back thinner and much brighter. He has a puckish flair for the vinegar stuff that gives the Rialto what it thinks is sophistication. Mark Hellinger, for instance, asked him how business was at a clipping show. "Fine," he exclaimed, "the second row was jammed."

Dramatic capsule: In an East 52d speakie, a philandering mother lurched into the washroom to find attendants trying to arouse her boarding-school daughter, stretched on the floor in a gin stupor. She telephoned frantically to her husband, and in grim silence they accompanied the girl in an ambulance to a hospital. New York!

SUMMER—THE ACID TEST.

This is the season, when the most timid and susceptible bachelor can safely put away his sales resistance, uninsulate his heart and give free reign to his lighter emotions. He is fairly safe from the maddling women!

Summer is supposed to be the season of romance; but if any romance can survive the eye-shockers and sad revelations one sees on the beach, at this time of year, it is more than a mere "romance"—it is a miracle of love!

Next to blackening her teeth and shaving her head, nothing can do so much to transform a woman from a thing of beauty into a cartoon of herself, as a few weeks by the wild, wild waves, caressed by the actinic rays and wooed by the ardent breezes. Pretty rough-house lovers, these two. And if there is any way of wrecking a woman's beauty, they'll find it!

If she is white-skinned and red-headed, dear old King Sol will leave a large, unsightly freckle with his every kiss on her face and arms. If her hair is her glory, he'll burn it or fade it out, and leave it to the sweet salt breezes to make it limp and sticky. If her ivory neck and curving shoulders are her chief charm, he'll promptly start peeling them—and a peeling shoulder is no more alluring than a peeled onion. But he has a way of kissing most passionately the girl whose classic nose protrudes a little beyond her sunhat.

It is safe to say if Juliet had been lying bare-backed on the beach, with dark goggles covering her eyes, scrambled hair and sunburn lotion on her nose, Romeo would never have stopped to discover whether she possessed beauties of the soul or not.

Or, if Helen of Troy had been wearing tight-fitting pyjama pants, one of these little skull caps (beanets), an oddsplaying a scarlet forehead, a tomato-red nose and fifteen arms when Paris caught sight of her, he would have gone back home to Papa and there would have been no Trojan war.

And Marc Antony would have been true to his wife forever if Cleopatra had appeared before him in a midsummer coat of sunan with a peeling spine, a red "V" on her throat and white rings around her eyes, left by the sun-glasses.

Of course the sun finally does go down, even in daylight-saving time, and the moonlight softens everything, including the feminine face and the masculine heart. Which is probably why the Lord gave us bigger and brighter moons in summer when these two need so much more softening.

But summer is not the season of romance. It is the season when most romances are wrecked—and only the fittest and strongest survive.

• • •

Men fall in love in spring, winter or fall, when women gets into their imaginations. But summer is the acid-test of love! That's why I'm a sun-hater.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

GRUESOME SCENES.

There had been a serious automobile accident and a crowd of people had gathered. About the scene stood not only men and women but little children, wide-eyed and clutching at their mothers' hands.

One child was crying hysterically and trying to drag her mother from the spot. She, however, refused to move until she had seen the victims lifted into an ambulance.

The crowd was composed of average, every-day people. The mothers, who had stood by with their children, did not belong to the under-privileged classes from whom one has no right to expect refinement of feeling in their dealings with children, yet, in their fascination at witnessing an accident, they had quite forgotten that they were mothers.

They had satisfied their own curiosity without thought of the dreadful experience to which they were subjecting their children.

A child's attention should never be drawn to the sight of suffering or death. Often it is possible to prevent him from seeing some dreadful thing merely by conversation, which draws his attention in another direction.

Once, during a walk on a California beach, a mother prevented her 5-year-old child from seeing the body of a drowned man, through causing her to look intently for a

FRANK BOWMAN DIES IN CRASH

Car and Body of Victim Carried Three Blocks on Pilot of Locomotive.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 25—Frank Bowman, 62, was killed at the Warpole street crossing at 3:03 a. m. Sunday when the automobile he was driving was hit by No. 54, east bound Pennsylvania flyer, due here at 3:01 a. m.

Mr. Bowman and Mrs. Sadie Metzgar had just returned from looking at some turtle lines he had set. He had taken Mrs. Metzgar to her home on South Warpole street and was enroute to his home when the accident happened. The Warpole street crossing is the only one not protected with gates or flasher lights on the Pennsylvania line in Upper Sandusky. The waiting room of the railroad is located on the south side of the tracks and obstructs all view of trains approaching from the west.

Mrs. Metzgar was watching the car as it approached the crossing and saw the accident, her home being only a few hundred feet south of the crossing.

The car and Mr. Bowman's body were carried nearly to the Eighth street crossing, three blocks away, before the train could be brought to a stop. The train was being drawn by two locomotives driven by J. B. Trimble and J. F. Milner, both of Ft. Wayne, and was delayed here 40 minutes by the accident.

Mr. Bowman was born in Crane township Feb. 11, 1870. He followed the occupation of farmer until eight years ago he came to this city, where he has been employed by the state highway department and by the county surveyor.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the home of his sister, Mrs. Agnes Grummel on North Sandusky avenue and at 2:30 p. m. at the Smithville church. Services will be in charge of Rev. George W. Good. Burial will be made in Smithville cemetery.

Besides Mrs. Grummel he is survived by another sister, Mrs. Curtis Bennett, of this city, and three brothers, Charles and Samuel Bowman, of near Sycamore, and William Bowman of Ottowa, Kan.

The first recorded flight of a rocket plane released from a balloon was witnessed by thousands of persons near Aurora, Ill., Sunday. William G. Swan, 29-year-old plane expert, was carried aloft in his glider by a hot air balloon, and reaching the desired height, shot off three rockets attached to the glider. Swan landed in four minutes. Swan said he hoped to perfect a balloon which would carry a glider into the stratosphere. At 40,000 feet, he said, it might be possible to fly the Atlantic with a glider.

150 Horses at Fairgrounds for Short Ship Race Meeting

PRESBIES, IRISH TO CLASH IN BENEFIT BATTLE WEDNESDAY

TRACK IN TIP TOP CONDITION FOR FOUR BIG NIGHTS OF SPEED

Three Events on Schedule of First Night; Barrier Starting Dropped.

With the stables filled to overflowing with not less than 150 head of the finest trotters and pacers in the country, with the half mile oval at the fairground in tip top condition for fast stepping, with the grand stand throughly renovated and ready for occupancy, the annual four day summer meeting of the Little Grand Circuit is scheduled to get under way at the north side track Tuesday night. Four nights of racing there will be, 15 events in all, and what racing it promises to be.

Three events are on the opening night's program, the 24 pace, 16 trot and claiming pace. The entry list is not yet completed but indications are than the 24 pace will have at least 12 starters, the 16 trot nine and the claiming pace, eight. Included in that list of entries are some of the fastest steppers now treading the tracks of the Grand Circuit and little Grand Circuit so there will be no dearth of competition.

About the only change in the system of handling the races over that of last year will be in the starting. The barrier system of getting the horses off, which proved so popular here with fans here last season, but not with horsemen at any of the races throughout the circuit, will be discontinued, at least for the first night. Officials have announced that the barrier will be on hand and may be put in use should the fans voice a wish for its use. The barrier has been discontinued at many tracks because of the protest of a large number of horsemen. Steve Phillips, popular starter of Xenia, will again act as starting judge.

The races will start at 8:15 p. m. each night. In case rain should prevent the holding of any night's events, the meeting will be carried over and held on Saturday night.

AMERICAN OLYMPIC BOXING TEAM STRONG

Yanks Have Brilliant Group of Fighters for Amateur Games.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25—America's Olympic boxing team is heralded as one of the most formidable ring delegations ever assembled by this country for the games.

The eight who will wear the U. S. shield won their laurels in furious finals here Saturday night climaxing the first open tournament ever held to select a team.

Nearly a hundred candidates from twenty states and a territory participated. The team left today for Los Angeles.

Sectionally, the far west claimed the distinction of placing the most team members, with three. Two from the east; as many from the mild west and a lone entry from the south, round out the first squad.

Four national A. A. U. titleholders, Louis Salica of Brooklyn; Nathan Bor of Fall River, Mass.; Edward Flynn of New Orleans and Fred Feary of Stockton, earned places on the team.

Joe Lang of San Francisco became the 118 pound standard bearer, and the featherweight went to John Hines of San Pedro.

At 160 pounds, Carmen Barth, hard hitting Cleveland boy, won, and John Miler of Detroit proved rugged enough to triumph in the 175 pound finals.

YANKS WIN RIGHT TO BATTLE FRENCH NET STARS FOR DAVIS CUP

Americans Grab Victory Over Germany by Narrow Margin; Shields Loses.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 25—For the fourth time in five years, the United States has qualified to challenge France for the Davis cup emblematic of world tennis supremacy.

Three times since 1927, Uncle Sam's forces have tried unsuccessfully to wrest the trophy from France's defenders, and they will have another opportunity Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The American's narrow margin of victory over Germany in the inter-zone finals concluded yesterday, the result of a complete failure by big Frank Shields in his two singles matches, left the strength of the invading squad a subject of debate.

Only the fact that Ellsworth Vines, Jr., American and Wimbledon champion, was able to win both his singles tilts turned the tide for the United States. Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn made the final score three matches to two by winning their doubles encounter in straight sets.

Vines clinched the series in yesterday's opening match by defeating Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, 3-6, 6-3, 9-7, 6-3, after a two-hour battle. The closing match, with nothing at stake, saw the veteran Dr. Daniel Prenn give Shields a tennis lesson by scores of 6-1, 6-0, 6-8, 6-2.

Shields' collapse, leaving American with only one dependable singles player, made it highly probable there will be a change in the line-up before the series with France. Bernon Prentice, non-playing captain of the U. S. squad, declared he would not decide on the line-up until the day of the draw, but there was a strong belief that Wilmer Allison will supplant Shields in at least one singles engagement.

The French squad was announced yesterday by the tennis federation after a lengthy wrangle in which Jean Borotra put up a strong argument against his being included. But in the end the bounding basque was drafted, and will join Henri Rochet, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus in defense of the cup. Rene LaCoste, who had hoped to make a comeback, had to be passed up because of illness.

BITTER STRUGGLE IN PROSPECT AS RIVALS IN LITTLE RACE MEET

Y Playground Work To Get Entire Proceeds; Admission Only Dime.

Two games this week stand out as the headline attractoins of the softball schedule. One, the First Presbyterian-St. Mary battle of the No. 1 Sunday school league will be played Wednesday at Lincoln park as a benefit game. The second the K. of P.-Kappa conflict, will be played Friday night as a regularly scheduled Commercial league tilt.

The Presbyterian-Irish conflict on Wednesday is likely to draw the biggest softball crowd of the season to date. The Irish and Presbies have not met this year and both are strong contenders for the No. 1 church gonfalon. The Irish are defending the league crown, having won it last season. The first scheduled meeting between the two teams was postponed. The game Wednesday is not the playoff of the first round postponed game. The postponed game will be played off later.

Y Gets Proceeds

The proceeds of the game will go to the Y. M. C. A. for use in city playground activities. The Y has been sponsoring playground work all this summer despite the serious handicap of a curtailed budget allowance. There will be no expenses as no one receives any pay for aid in staging the game. Admission to the game will be only a dime.

Benefit or no benefit, the Irish-Presbyterian conflict would be a blood and thunder affair. The two teams have been rated as two of the best in the circuit all season and both have been battling it out all summer to stay at the top. Neither will spare a thing to win the game as the outcome will have a lot to do with what teams wins the championship. A victory for the Presbies will make an already tight race even tighter. An Irish victory would almost eliminate the Presbyterians from the pennant struggle and put the championship between Lee Street and the Irish.

Another Big Game

The Friday conflict between the Kappas and K. of P., another of those "crooclal" battles. The Kay Pees now hold a half game lead in the titular race. A Kappa victory would open the way for a possible tie at the end of the season, necessitating a post season playoff, while a Kay Pee win would virtually cinch the flag for the lodge combine. The Kay Pees stopped the Kappas in a previous encounter this season.

Aside from these games the week's schedule offers nothing particularly outstanding except the natural rivalries among various teams which are scheduled to play each other. But those two—they're enough for any one week. There will be a host of fans with sadly overworked lungs long before the two games are completed.

MARION MATMAN TO TACKLE PADDY MACK

Dick Griffin in Semi-Final of Card Starring Vangler and Ashby.

The wandering idol of local wrestling fans will come home tonight when Paddy Mack, the blue eyed Irish lad returns to action in the outdoor arena here for the first time in many weeks.

Paddy is a great favorite here, his clean, scientific grappling having made a big hit with local wrestling fans. He'll have friends by the legion at the ringside when he swings into action against the local youngster, Dick Griffin.

And just a word about Griffin. Most local fans think of Griffin as just an ambitious local boy but Dick has passed that stage. He's been branching out fast in the last few months and is now one of the toughest lightheavies calling Ohio his native state.

This will be his big chance and Dick is prepared for it. If he can hook a win over Mack his stock will be boosted to a high figure all over the country. It will mean more and lucrative matches and for that reason Dick has left no stone unturned to be in the greatest shape of his career for the tilt.

Fireworks of the most vivid sort are certain to fly in the 15-round main bout of this show which will send Sammy Vangler against Spike Ashby with the gloves on.

Vangler and Ashby will don the padded mitts for a 15-round battle after having failed in several wrestling bouts to decide which is the better man.

The first preliminary of the combination program will start at 8:30 p. m.

CAPITAL CITY CLUB COPS DIAMOND MEET AT NORTH SIDE PARK

Marion Team Beaten by Whittaker Morticians in Final of Tourney.

Yesterday afternoon at Lincoln park, for the second time in as many weeks, a colored softball combine of Columbus walked off with the honors in a three-game softball tournament. The Whittaker Morticians grabbed the cup which goes to winner each week in yesterday's competition by beating the Jenner Lunches of Marion in the final game, 3-1. Last week it was the White & Sons Morticians of Columbus who copped the laurels. Besides the Whittaker and Jenners teams, Ada Zo-Ro Lo and Delaware Schaffer Welders took part in the tourney yesterday.

Delaware and Jenners Lunches launched the games with the Marion combine carrying off a rather easy 6-0 decision. The heavy hitting Jenner team clubbed out 10 hits of two Delaware pitchers and converted them into six tallies. Myron Gibson and Fido Robbins both smashed out homers to aid the Marion cause. Mike Keller of Nevada, who pitched the game for the Jenner nine, set the losers down with three hits.

Whittakers Win Next

The Whittaker Morticians grabbed the second game of the meet by trouncing the Ada Zo Ro Lo tossers by a 7-4 margin. The Capital city nine displayed even more superiority over the Ada boys than the score would indicate. The losers outhit the victorious team 11-9 but couldn't get the singles when they would do anything in the way of scoring runs.

The final game of the three provided the thrills of the afternoon. Both teams were battling might and main for everything they could get and both played near perfect ball. Each committed only one error.

Mike Keller again took the mound for the Jenner team, opposing Dudley, a flinger who blazed them through with machine gun speed. Keller and Dudley waged a great battle until the seventh frame when Keller was detricked in favor of Don Lindsey.

Jenners Score First

Neither team scored in the first three innings. The Jenner nine counted in the fourth and the run kept them ahead until the seventh when a momentary letdown allowed three Columbus runners to dent the platter.

Both teams banged out 11 hits and both had men on the bases in every inning. However, each time the opposition tightened with the sacks populated and cut scoring chances to a minimum.

Batteries and score by innings:
Columbus ..... 000 000 300—3 11 1
Marion ..... 000 100 000—1 11 1
Columbus, Dudley and Mitchell; Marion, Keller, Lindsey and Wolfe.
Ada ..... 020 000 2—4 11 3
Columbus ..... 300 400 x—7 9 4
Ada, Carmen and Nelswander, R. Carman; Columbus, Smith and Mitchell.
Delaware ..... 000 000 0—0 3 3
Marion ..... 004 200 x—6 10 1
Delaware, Schaffer, Penry and Hazleton, Skates; Marion, Keller, Lindsey and Wolfe.

BARBERS SUBDUED BY RADNOR TEAM

Haughn's Barbers of Marion were handed a 16-4 lacing yesterday afternoon by Radnor in a Tri-county league baseball game. H. Streng went the route for the losers despite the fact he was hit hard all the way.

Batteries and score by innings:
Haughn's ..... 000 040 000—4
Radnor ..... 203 410 20x—10
Haughn's, Streng and Anderson; Radnor, L. Milligan and W. Milligan.

Colonels Humbled Twice by Columbus Red Birds

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 25—The presence of Billy Southworth has been a distinct tonic to Columbus' American Association entry, and the Red Birds appeared headed right back into the championship battle.

When Southworth replaced Nemo Leibold two weeks ago, Columbus was on the skids in a big way. Southworth got the Birds started again, leading them to victory in nine of their last 10 games, resulting in a climb back into third place.

The Birds made it three in a row over Louisville yesterday, taking both ends of a doubleheader, 7 to 6 and 7 to 2, before 11,000 satisfied fans. Nick Cullop was the hero of the first game, doing a Frank Merriwell to score the winning runs. In the last of the ninth, Cullop was sent in to pinch bat and responded with a home run. In the second game, Phil Weinert pitcher effectively against his former teammates, while Healey, Columbus rookie catcher, helped out with two home runs.

Although Joe Hauser got his 35th home run with a man in the ninth, Minneapolis took a 7 to 4 beating from St. Paul and lost a game and a half from its leading margin.

Indianapolis took advantage of the Millers' defeat by twice knocking off Toledo. A ninth inning rally by the Indains tied the score for the Indians in the first game, and then went on to win in the eleventh, 5 to 4. Good cold fashioned hitting provided ample material for a 9 to 4 decision in the nightcap.

Milwaukee trimmed Kansas City, 4 to 3, in the first match of their doubleheader. The Blues came back to take the second game, 5 to 1, as Lou Fette held Milwaukee to four hits in seven innings.

MORRAL VICTOR IN SUNDAY GAME, 5-3

Morral recorded another victory yesterday in a Tri-county league baseball game, beating Marseilles, 5-3. The winners garnered nine hits and held the losers to three.

Batteries and score by innings:
Morral ..... 111 010 100—5 9
Marseilles ..... 000 002 100—3 3
Morral, Van Scoy and Conkle; Marseilles, Shilling, Hankins and Young.

CALEDONIA WINNER OF SUNDAY BATTLE

The Caledonia baseball team turned in a 10-4 victory Sunday over Ashley in a game played on the Ashley diamond. C. Huffman struck out 18 Ashley batters.

Batteries and scores by innings:
Caledonia ..... 010 010 206—10
Ashley ..... 010 002 010— 4
Caledonia, Huffman and Slagle; Ashley, Hall and Wheeler.

Yanks Crush Mackmen as Gomez Bests Lefty Grove

By The Associated Press

Lefty Gomez, who in less than two seasons has risen to the status of the game's greatest pitcher, finally has achieved his most burning ambition—a personal triumph over Robert Moses Grove, the veteran he supplanted.

The two great southpaws clashed yesterday for the first time, and the Yankee star scored an impressive victory, 9 to 3. It marked the Castillian's sixth consecutive win over the Athletics this year and his ninth in 10 times he has faced the former champions in two years.

The defeat cost Philadelphia second place in the American league, the Cleveland Indians passing them with a pair of victories over Chicago, 9 to 7 and 9 to 6.

St. Louis and Detroit broke even,

Although Dale Alexander clouted a home run with two on, the Boston Red Sox bowed to Washington, 12 to 6.

The Pittsburgh Pirates held their lead over the National league by dividing with Chicago. The Cubs captured the first, 7 to 2, but the Corsairs took the second, 7 to 5. Gus Suhr hit a homer.

St. Louis built up its fences with two triumphs over Cincinnati, 7 to 3 and 1 to 0. Si Johnson battled four Cardinal pitchers for 13 innings before his own error cost him defeat in the second game.

Boston and New York broke even, the Braves winning 4 to 3, and the Giants, 7 to 3.

Dazzy Vance, by striking out 10 batters, and Hack Wilson, hitting

STOCK SHARES PUSH HIGHER

Market Climbs from Recent Narrow Range to Record Gains.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 25— With sports in the run, speculators for the rise were able today to push the stock market out of its narrow trading range of the last two months up to the best average level since May.

The move was rather selective, but tobaccos, oils, steels, some of the utilities and rails, were sent up 1 to more than 2 points with apparently little effort. Brokerage gossip had it that shorts were unnerved over the prospect that U. S. Steel would order the regular preferred dividend tomorrow, and that its quarterly earnings may not show a severe deficit as has been predicted.

Among issues up about 2 points or more were U. S. Steel Preferred, Bethlehem Preferred, American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, National Biscuit, Drug, Standard of California, and Consolidated Oil Preferred. Shares up a point or more included American Can, American Telephone, Norfolk & Western, Standard of N. J., Consolidated Oil Common, Atlantic Refining, American Water Works, Sears Roebuck and others. Santa Fe and Bethlehem Steel common rose a point, then slipped back in a temporary sag in the general list just before midday. Reading Co. and Crucible preferred shot up 5 points.

Bullishly inclined traders apparently acted on the theory that the market's response to second quarter earnings statements, some of which have been more favorable than expected, had indicated that the worst aspects of the industrial situation had been discounted, and that higher prices were in order. They also were said to be impressed with the advance in the market last week, in the face of disturbances in Germany and discussions at the Ottawa conference of plans which would further curtail or export trade. But Wall street was by no means wholly bullish. Some quarters remained skeptical, in view of the adverse indications of such barometers as electric power production.

GRAINS SLIP AFTER RALLY

Chicago Values Decline Under Curtailment of Speculative Buying.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 25—Under a noticeable curtailment of speculative buying, grain prices declined today after an early advance.

Shrinkage of buying demand for wheat was attributed in part to unsettlement of trade as a result of Washington administrative steps toward a shutdown of grain exchange operations here. Scattered showers both in the American and Canadian northwest were also a bearish factor, together with 3,787,000 bushels increase of the United States wheat visible supply.

Wheat closed unstable, ¼@¾ under Saturday's finish, corn ⅝@¾ down, oats unchanged to ⅝ off, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

LEADING PROS IN LINKS QUALIFIER

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., July 25—Almost all of the state's leading professionals were entered today in the Ohio Professional Golfers association qualifier at the Westbrook Country club.

There were 31 names in the starting list for the 36-hole opening round, but only six will qualify.

With so much talent competing, and past performances so deceptive, even the competitors themselves were of the opinion that both the qualifier and the final would be "any man's battle."

HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT TOPS FIGHT SKEDULE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 25—While the national boxing calendar for the current week doesn't reveal anything resembling a title fight, there are a few weighty affairs down for settlement that may do something toward clearing up the heavyweight situation.

Heading the list is tonight's 15-round struggle between Paulino Uzcudun and Ernie Schaaf at Madison Square Garden's new arena on Long Island. It is regarded as the Garden's first gun in an elimination tournament to discover a logical challenger for Jack Sharkey's title.

Tonight also at Newark, N. J., Mickey Walker will start a comeback campaign against Salvatore Ruggirello, the Italian heavyweight whom Schaaf knocked cold last winter.

In a third heavyweight engagement tonight at Los Angeles, young Steve Hamas goes against Les Ramage, the coast star who gave him a surprise defeat not long ago.

Thursday night, Benny Leonard will find out for good and all whether they ever come back. The former lightweight champion is down for 10 fast rounds with Billy Townsend, the welterweight walloper from Vancouver.

EQUIPOISE NOT TO ENTER HANDICAPS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 25—The tentative program for Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Equipoise for the remainder of the season includes no more handicap affairs and imposts of 134 pounds.

Following his defeat, the first in eight starts, by Plucky Play in the Arlington handicap Saturday, Trainer Fred Hopkins said the sensational four-year-old stake star would not be asked to give away huge chunks of weight again, at least this season. Equipoise was beaten only a neck by Plucky Play, carrying 134 pounds, to 111 by the victor.

QUAKE RECORDED IN 2 EASTERN STATES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 25— The Georgetown observatory today reported its instruments showed earthquake shocks of considerable intensity about 2,200 miles southwest of Washington, probably in Mexico, beginning at 4:19:04 a. m. Marion time and ending about 5:30 a. m.

FINLAND LIKELY TO TAKE JAVELIN TOSS

America Has Good Men, but Hardly Good Enough To Win.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 25—Although the chief American entries have surpassed Olympic records in the javelin and world records in the decathlon, the homebreds find themselves in the unfortunate position of being outclassed in each event by the robust sons of Finland.

Two of the surest bets in the Olympic track and field competition, starting next Sunday, are that Akilles Jarvinen will outpoint his countryman, Paavo Yrjola, for the decathlon crown and that his younger brother, Matti Jarvinen, will win the javelin with a new world record toss.

The Jarvinen boys, whose father won the Olympic discuss toss, Greek style, in 1908, appear to have their specialties all wrapped up, barring the biggest kind of an upset.

"Jarring Jim" Bausch, the rugged former Kansas university star, is the best decathlon entry the U. S. A. has had since Jim Thorpe. Bausch ran up 8103 points, bettering Yrjola's listed record, in the final American tryouts.

He finished far ahead of the other two American qualifiers, Wilson (Buster) Charles, the speedy Oneida Indian, and Clyde Coffman, also from Kansas. Bausch is the only one of the trio likely to place in the Olympic first six.

MOVIE STARS HAPPY AS MOTHERS

By International News Service

HOLLYWOOD.—A lot has been written and said about the frivolous manner in which this city of stars regards the marital bond. It has been suggested on more than one occasion by the facetious minded that the marriage vows ought be amended to read "till death, or until I get bored with you, do us part."

But in all fairness to the kings and queens of the screen who comprise the major population of Hollywood, it ought to be pointed out that the percentage of happy marriages in the film capital is just as high as it is in any other part of the country. It is merely the prominence of the parties concerned that results in a marital rift becoming front page news.

What is more, film stars are amongst the most devoted mothers in the world, despite the charges of frivolity that are all too often leveled against them.

Barrymores Still Happy

For example, take the Barrymores. John and the former Dolores Costello. Dolores gave up a brilliant screen career to marry the great movie lover. Heads wagged lugubriously in the movie lots when she took up housekeeping as Mrs. Barrymore and predictions were freely made that it wouldn't last.

But the Barrymore marital barque sailed along quite smoothly, much to the surprise of the headwaggers. Again, when a baby daughter was born to the couple, whispered predictions of a split were made, as it was well known that John wanted a boy on whose shoulders would fall the purple mantle of the thespian royal family. But again the predictions failed to materialize.

Today, the Barrymores are the happiest couple in Hollywood. For John has his heir and is content, so that even the most pessimistic of the rumor-mongers are silenced. Dolores is the proudest mother in the United States and frankly admits that the role of motherhood is the greatest she has ever played, laughing to scorn any suggestion that she regrets forsaking the screen for maternity.

Gloria Is Proud Mother

Another star who found the greatest happiness in motherhood is Gloria Swanson, wife of the Irish sportsman Michael Farmer. Formerly married to the Marquis de la Falaise, and before that to Herbert K. Somborn, by whom she had a daughter, Miss Swanson brought another little stranger into the world a couple of months ago in London. She, too, admits that motherhood had been her greatest role. She is passionately fond of children, so much so that besides her own two she has an adopted son. Gloria once confessed that her greatest ambition was to have eight children.

There is something ideally romantic about the marital voyage of lovely Mary Astor, another distinguished screen luminary who found the role of her life in maternity. Mary is the little lady who hurt the feelings of fellow movie stars with the statement that she could not imagine herself falling in love with an actor.

Marries Physician

Her first husband, Kenneth Hawks, a supervisor at the studios, was killed in a plane accident and the shock almost killed Mary, too. She became desperately ill and Dr. Franklin Thorne, young Los Angeles physician, was called in. The medico saved her life and what was more natural than that she should fall in love with him?

They were married and in due course expected the stork. But Mary did not have the patience to await the mythical bird's arrival in Hollywood. With her husband, she packed up and set sail on their yacht for a Pacific cruise, meeting the stork at Honolulu and receiving the gift of a four-pound daughter. Is she happy? Well, look at the picture above! What do you think?

Professor Outlines Plan for Economic Recovery

By International News Service

CHICAGO — Five fundamentals steps toward economic recovery have been outlined by Prof. William E. Dodd, head of the University of Chicago's department of history. They are:

1. A more equitable distribution of the returns of labor.
2. A "back-to-the-farm" movement for unemployed city workers who have had farm experience.
3. A "root and branch" reform of banking practice and a reduction of industrial overhead.
4. The deflation of politics and elimination of government waste.
5. International reduction of tariff barriers and of armament expenditures.

Dr. Dodd set forth his ideas in an address entitled "Something Less Than Revolution." He admitted the reforms were difficult of execution—but not impossible.

Concerning the "back-to-the-farm" proposal, Dr. Dodd said,

"Let states and counties award 25 acres on lease to every unemployed city man who migrated from the farm or who has ever lived in the country and then let him begin to help himself, not in growing crops for the market but in providing his own foodstuff.

"Since 1922, 5,000,000 people have migrated from the country to the city, and a million of them might be induced to go back. If the dependent of the cities do not accept the offer, let charity or government aid cease. The country cannot long carry the burden of social aid to millions of people."

Dr. Dodd pointed out that since the days of Alexander Hamilton American banking has frequently been unsafe, very speculative and even arbitrary in its attitude toward the public.

"The bankers interpreted the law to cover doubtful practices," Dr. Dodd said, "coaxed Mellon and Coolidge and Hoover into giving them free rein. Let the public now take steps to prevent a repetition of the performance. A deposit in a bank ought to be a sacred fund that no man may trifle with."

In regard to the necessity of reducing government expenditures, Dr. Dodd remarked that the taxpayers are burdened "with the maintenance of useless or dispensable office holders who hang like leeches upon the social system and seem as willing to risk total national collapse as were the onhangers of the court of Louis XVI." He pointed out that the veterans' bureau in Washington costs the public as much as the whole national administration in 1914.

"Two score men in congress might break down the system of abuses which bears so heavily upon all life," the professor declared.

On the last of his proposed remedies, Dr. Dodd said:

"The United States must call an international conference with the avowed purpose of reciprocal reduction of tariff walls. The result would be more friendly relations and a slow recovery of markets. Some labor might be displaced; it is already displaced. But when the world sold more to us, she would buy more from us."

The professor also urged a reduction in the cost of armaments in all nations, declaring the money thus saved might go far to rehabilitate rural life and productive power.

TIFFIN POLICE ASK LOOKOUT FOR MAN

Police here were asked by the Tiffin police department yesterday to be on the lookout for a man driving a black mule hitched to a buggy. The man was suspected of having stolen a bicycle in Tiffin. The man, previous to the alleged theft, is said to have given Marion as his home.

The Tiffin police also reported the theft of a Model A Ford by a man five feet seven inches tall, weighing about 180 pounds and wearing a dark suit and a blue shirt. The car was described as a 1931 model with Ohio license 1837-437 and motor number A42223271.

PILOTS WILL TAKE EXAMINATIONS HERE

Several Marion applicants for private pilot's licenses will be given examinations Tuesday at Marion airport by Freeman Albery of Detroit, federal inspector for this district, it was announced today by Harold W. Cobb, manager of the port.

It will be the first time a federal inspector has visited the Marion port to examine applicants. Written examinations will be given during the morning, and flying tests will be given during the afternoon.

DEPUTY SEARCHES 3 HOURS FOR MAN

A three-hour search by Deputy Sheriff M. E. Baldwin beginning at midnight failed to disclose any trace of Tony May, of east of Green Camp today. He was believed by Mrs. May to have committed suicide last night.

Mrs. May said she heard a shot shortly after her husband had left the house, and feared that he might have taken his life. She went to a neighbor's house and called the deputy. An investigation was to be continued today.

Marion Man, 83, Defeats Heat Wave by Swimming

Ellis Katz Enjoys Plunge in Cooling Waters Every Day at Crystal Lake.

At 84, Ellis Katz of 188 Park boulevard is one of Marion's most enthusiastic swimmers. Blistering hot days mean nothing to this aquatic veteran, who has been a regular water fan for 78 years.

Katz regularly joins Marion swimmers at Crystal lake park to find relief from oppressive summer weather.

The axiom that "practice makes perfect" can be applied almost literally to Katz and his swimming. He will venture into deep water as soon as he has entered the lake, and will remain far from shore for an hour at a time. Few younger and more hardy swimmers do this.

His remarkable ability to relax and thoroughly enjoy swimming has attracted the comment of hundreds of Marion swimmers who have seen him at the lake during the last few summers.

No Secret

"There's no secret about the way I swim—although there is a knack to it," he confided. 'Most persons," he continued, "don't realize that their bodies are lighter than the water, with the exception of their heads. Of course it is essential that most of the head be kept above water.

"If people would learn to swim 'in' the water instead of 'on' it, and learn to swim leisurely instead of at a tiring pace, they would get much more enjoyment from their bathing," he declared.

Demonstrating his theory, he gave himself a gentle shove into the deep water. His motions at all times were slow and deliberate, not tiring. No matter how he turned his body in the water, he remained in such position that his nose was safely above the water line. After a few short strokes, he would coast slowly and float lazily in the sunshine.

"You see, I rest in the water, not work," he pointed out. He likes to watch younger swimmers execute fancy dives from the springboard, but does not care to attempt any diving.

Recalls "Tanning"

"One of the two lickings I received in my lifetime was for going swimming," he said. "My father had warned me to stay out of the water, but the temptation had been too great. He struck me three times with a short piece of rope, but the last lick was rather light, he said, recalling the incident which occurred three-quarters of a century ago.

Mrs. Katz accompanies Mr. Katz to the lake for his regular swims, but remains on the bank. Mr. and Mrs. Katz will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next Aug. 23. They have lived in Marion since 1880.

Mr. Katz came to this country from Poland when he was 17. His father mixed into the Polish rebellion against Russian rule, and fled with his family for fear that he might be captured and executed. The native home of Mr. Katz was Wioclawik, along the Vistula river.

Mr. and Mrs. Katz are the parents of Dr. S. H. Katz, a major in the U. S. army at Edgewood arsenal near Baltimore, Dr. G Henry Katz of Camden, N. J., and two daughters, Miss Ida May, a teacher in the Pittsburgh, Pa., high school, and Mrs. J. M. Shear of Trenton, N. J.

Hard Times Cut Escape Attempts from Ohio Pen

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 25—Depression and stricted discipline have cut escapes at Ohio penitentiary to a minimum, Warden P. E. Thomas said today.

During the first six months of this year only three prisoners, all trusties, have walked away from the institution. One was recaptured, another returned voluntarily, and the other is still at liberty. One of the escapes, the warden said should not be counted as the guards erroneously made a trusty of the wrong convict.

Since the prison fire, April 21, 1930, in which 320 convicts perished, only a few attempts at escape have been reported to the warden.

Discipline has been tightened on the more dangerous classes of criminals.

The prison chief revealed for the first time that radios have been taken from within the walls. The radios, he claimed, were used prior to the prison fire for intercepting telephone messages of prison officials as well as for the entertainment of the prisoners.

The depression has had its affect upon one class of prisoner—the man who would like to get away and make an honest living elsewhere. This class of fairly well satisfied within the walls as they know that no employment is available outside.

The hardened criminal, however, has no worries about depressions, the warden said. This class continues to plot but this far his plans have been nipped before ever getting a good start. A closer guard is maintained at all times over the hardened criminal.

Warden Thomas said this type has no desire to "go straight" and wants only to get out. He would not seek employment but would return to crime as a means of livlihood, the prison chief said.

Flier, Lost 18 Days in Mexican Jungle, Tells of Fight To Reach Civilization

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, July 25—Signs of civilization, in the form of four calves tethered to a tree, lit the first flames of hope in the dazed mind of Clarence McElroy of Medaryville, Ind., flier who was rescued, starving, from the jungle over a week ago.

His mind clearing after 10 days of wandering and incoherency, McElroy had recovered sufficiently when he was brought here yesterday to tell the story of his fatal crash and the 18 days of pain, starvation and horror which followed it.

The crash occurred at 10 a. m., on June 27, he said. He and his companion, Roy Gordan, American of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, were flying southward on the way to Honduras where they were to deliver the plane. They ran into a furious storm.

"There was no visibility and I tried to find a spot to land. Suddenly the plane crashed into a mountainside," he said.

Injured in Crash

"I was knocked out and recovered consciousness in a rainstorm at 3 p. m. I noted that the plane was a complete washout. My leg and head pained severely and I was too weak to crawl out of the wreck.

"I can't remember much of those first three days. Everything was hazy. I could see that Gordon was dead, but I was too weak to move.

"Three days later I had re-covered some strength. I tried to cover Gordon's body and then started crawling up the mountain to get my bearings.

"It was almost impossible to make headway in the jungle. My pains increased. I got water from a small mountain stream and caught a few crabs and ate them raw.

"At night I could see the lights of San Geronimo, but made very slow progress, probably not more than three miles from the ship in 14 days' crawling. I was very weak and somewhat delirious.

"July 13 was my lucky day. That evening I came upon a herd of cows beside a stream, but what gave me hope was the sight of four calves tied to trees. I knew somebody eventually would come to untie those calves, so I stopped right there. I was too weak even to try to milk a cow.

Found by Indian

"[illegible]ng the Indian he understood. He built a small lean-to to protect me and left for help.

"That boy did a marvelous job. He covered the 20 miles to San Geronimo four times in a single day betting help and getting me out. I am going to reward him handsomely."

As soon as his physician gives the word, McElroy intends to start for Indiana.

POLITICS OR A SOCIAL CALL?

Beneath the surface of this informal chat between Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt (left), Democratic presidential nominee, and Colonel Edward M. House, there may be a deal of significance, when one considers that the colonel, an intimate advisor of the late President Wilson, is one of the world's leading political strategists. The governor stopped off at the colonel's home in Beverly Farms, Mass., enroute to Albany after ending his vacation cruise along the New England coast.

For 5 Days . . . At Our Store
A New Type Sprayer to Protect Your Home

Rex Research has invented a new-type sprayer for FLY-TOX. Patent applied for. Its use multiplies the value of FLY-TOX, and makes a little go far.

Each plunge of this sprayer throws out 150,000 particles of FLY-TOX in the form of a floating mist. Not droplets which fall too quickly, as old-type sprayers did. But a vapor, which pervades the whole room like a cloud of steam. It reaches every nook and cranny where flies and mosquitoes rest. And all such insects perish at its touch. The results are immediate. The cost is slight.

The value of this new-type sprayer is 40c. But it is so important that the makers authorize us, for the next five days, to present you one without charge or purchase obligation. Simply bring this receipt to our store. See coupon at bottom.

All Flies Die
All Mosquitoes . . . In a Perfumed Mist
Based on Japanese Flowers

Modern research has discovered that a certain Oriental flower yields an extract which no insect pest can tolerate.

At Mellon Institute there has been developed, by Rex Research Fellowship, a room spray based on that discovery. Ten years, and more than $100,000, have been spent in developing it.

The name of this spray is FLY-TOX. It is the greatest help the ages have developed in our war on insect pests.

Kills Them All . . . And Quickly

FLY-TOX, used in this new-type FLY-TOX sprayer, fills the room with a perfumed mist. A mist that floats, like a cloud of steam, to reach every nook and cranny. A mist of pleasant odor, harmless to people, stainless to anything. But as that mist rises, then slowly falls, it kills every winged pest that it touches. The room is completely cleared, and the cost is only from 1 to 2 cents per room.

Every batch of FLY-TOX is tested on these pests before it leaves Rex Research laboratories. Then its efficiency is guaranteed.

Nothing Else Compares

Flies and mosquitoes are your deadliest enemies. The germs they carry to your foods—the poisons they inject—cause over 30 diseases. Tens of thousands every year die from their infections. And most of the victims are children.

Protect your home in this supreme way—with FLY-TOX used in this new-type sprayer. Nothing else compares in efficiency, completeness and economy. Don't trust the safety of your home to any lesser help.

We are glad to present you this new-type sprayer—without charge—if you wish, such super-help. Just clip this coupon, sign and bring it to our store as a receipt. This is only a 5-day offer. Please act now.

Can be used with FLY-TOX ONLY or with MOTH-TOX, Rex Research Products
